

New York City official tries to head off angry crowd determined to cash in threatened bonds

City has friend in Poconos

STROUDSBURG — New York City may not have a friend at Chase Manhattan but it does have one at the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

Friday the tourist agency telegraphed congressmen and the President asking for some kind of support — financial, moral, anything — for the financially troubled city.

The bureau told the two wire services, the New York Times and local papers about its endorsement but somehow forgot to call New York City Mayor Abraham Beame's office with the good news.

After hearing about the endorsement, a spokeswoman for the mayor's office responded, "Frankly, we haven't been aware of it."

Bureau executive director Robert Uguccioni explained the bureau thought someone should stand up for the city, whose residents comprise 40 per cent of the Pocono's tourist business.

"It's time we start voicing our concern and support when our fellow Americans are in distress. The tourist industry is one which cares about the stability of New York City and the Big Apple cannot just be left to rot," Uguccioni said.

'Safest bonds in U.S.' disastrous for little guy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Individuals who sank hard-earned money into New York City bonds on a guarantee the bonds were the "second safest investment in the United States" have the most to lose if the city defaults, a bond expert said Friday.

James A. Leventhal, vice president of Leventhal & Co., said two-thirds of the city's $7.35 billion bond debt is owned by individuals.

Leventhal said 160,000 persons, many of them living on restricted retirement income, hold bonds and notes sold by the city as a solid investment for the future.

Default would harm these individuals more than it would banks or large institutions, he said.

Until the city's dire financial condition became evident, New York City bonds were lauded as the "second safest investment in the United States," ranking behind only those of the federal government.

"We absolutely need the income and need it when it is due," said Mrs. Renee Silverman of New York. "I didn't expect if I loaned the city my money that I won't get it back, and I want to get it back on time."

"The bonds were presented as being absolutely guaranteed by the full faith and credit of the city. Where is that full faith and credit now?"

Walter Marx of Palm Beach, Fla., said in a letter to Leventhal he put "most of my life savings accomplished by 55 years of hard work" into New York City bonds and now feels abandoned. "It seems Washington is only interested in taking care of the banks if there should be a default by New York City," he said.

"What about the thousands of individuals such as me? Are we the forgotten citizens who may have to burden the welfare problem more than today?"

The city has indicated it would pay workers involved in essential services first because the city also has a constitutional obligation to protect the health and safety of its citizens.

Ford refuses 'bite' for Big Apple

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Friday ruled out federal help for New York City when it appeared that the nation's largest city was only hours from financial disaster. The White House said Ford believed the city can solve its own problems.

"I can say flatly that the President will not take action to prevent a New York City default," Press Secretary Ron Nessen said at a briefing before New York's teachers union reversed itself and approved a loan needed to pay the city's immediate debts.

"This is not a natural disaster or an act of God," Nessen said. "It is a self-inflicted act by the people who have been running New York City."

Kissinger obliged U.S.

Oil-for-Israel pact binding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has confidentially informed Congress the administration considers itself legally bound to provide Israel with oil in the event of a new embargo, and to consult with Tel Aviv in case of a Soviet threat.

These are two out of 16 assurances, offered by Kissinger to Israel and Egypt in negotiating the Sinai Accord, which the administration considers to be legally binding. Twenty-nine other pledges which Kissinger made are not considered binding, although they may amount to moral obligations.

The assurances to Israel and Egypt, contained in four separate documents, were declassified and published by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Oct. 3.

However, the administration has never publicly disclosed to what extent it considers these promises to be legally binding commitments. Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, failed to get the Senate to authorize the declassification of the State Department memorandum during last week's debate on the Sinai Accord by a vote of 59 to 32.

Consequently, an Oct. 6 memorandum by State Department legal adviser Monroe Leigh to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee describing the binding qualities of the pledges remains classified secret.

But James McCartney of Knight newspapers obtained a copy of the secret State Department document and published Thursday a summary of its contents. Congressional sources said Friday the summary appeared to be accurate.

Additionally the secret memorandum states that the United States considers that it is legally bound to provide Egypt with "technical assistance" for an Egyptian early warnings system.

ESSC parade now Sunday

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Homecoming parade at East Stroudsburg State College has been postponed from today to Sunday at 1 p.m. due to inclement weather.

The GAO recommends that the FCC improve the effectiveness of its enforcement teams, assess stiff penalties against violators, and increase educational awareness of CB rules and proper CB use.

CB currently represents the FCC's single largest group of licenses, totaling 1.5 million as of June 30, 1975. Counting unlicensed operators, almost six million CB transmitters were in use by that time, the GAO said.

In order to study the effect of violations on law enforcement, the GAO requested information from officials of all states on their experience with illegal or questionable use of CB. According to the report, of the 45 states which responded:

— 42 reported the use of CB to help violate laws or to avoid law enforcement;

— 41 reported truckers' use of CB to avoid

Teachers union saves N.Y. City from default

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City was saved from financial default Friday by the reluctant agreement of city teachers to bankroll the "Big Apple" with $150 million in pension funds two hours before $453 million in debts fell due.

"We were put in a box where we were the only ones who could save the city," said Albert Shanker, president of the teachers union. "No one else was coming forward to save the city."

Before the teachers agreed to provide the cash New York needed to pay its bills, President Ford rejected frantic appeals from city officials for federal help.

Mayor Abraham Beame, meeting with reporters nearly two hours after Shanker agreed to the bailout plan, said he was "very pleased" to have Shanker go along but he warned that the financing put together Friday would carry the city only through early December.

"We must have federal help, a guarantee, not a hand-out — not money," Beame said.

"We can't live in this continual crises. The federal government must recognize its responsibility," he added. Beame denied that a deal had been made with the teachers. "I made no arrangements with Mr. Shanker at all," he said.

The agreement by the teachers to pour another $150 million into the city's depleted treasury came shortly before an expected announcement of default at 4 p.m. The teachers' pension money was needed to make up the difference between what the city had and what it owed at the moment.

But Gov. Hugh L. Carey warned the city's crisis was not over. He said New York now has enough money to pay its bills only to the end of the year. He once again appealed to President Ford.

"By exhausting all of its resources, New York can meet its obligations until Dec. 1," Carey said in a telegram to Ford. "After then the welfare of our citizens rests in the hands of our federal government. I seek your cooperation and leadership."

For several hours Friday, default appeared imminent, sending ripples through the world financial community, scaring individual bondholders and New York City bankers, and threatening the paychecks of some city workers.

Economists in London warned that default would hurt the dollar abroad.

New York Stock Exchange prices dropped 10 points, according to the Dow Jones industrial index, but recovered much of the loss when default was averted.

Trading in the bonds of other cities and states slowed to a near standstill, and even the prices of the most credit-worthy bonds fell initially.

One New York bank, Irving Trust, said it would not cash city payroll checks unless they were drawn on an account held by the bank itself. The city ordered the sanitation department to halt issuing weekly payroll checks, but most had already been delivered.

The Federal Reserve said it would provide emergency loans to New York banks whose solvency would be threatened by default. The city's banks have invested billions in city and state bonds and notes and default would reduce their value substantially.

Manufacturers Hanover Trust, custodian for the $453 million in city notes due Friday, agreed to remain open until midnight to process the new influx of cash from the teachers and other state and city sources to make certain the notes were paid on time.

Carey attacked President Ford for not recognizing the city's financial plight. The impact of default "upon the rest of the country could be from devastating to catastrophic," Carey said.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford was kept abreast of New York City developments throughout the day but had not changed his mind about refusing to grant assistance.

"This is not a natural disaster or an act of God," Nessen said. "It is a self-inflicted act by the people who have been running New York City."

Anti-gay rights bill veto set

HARRISBURG (UPI) — An aide to Gov. Milton J. Shapp told the Governor's Gay Rights Task Force Friday the governor will veto a bill passed by the legislature to bar hiring of homosexuals as state police, prison guards or attendants at juvenile and mental institutions.

Richard Doran, executive assistant to Shapp, said he had talked to the governor by telephone in New York and was told the governor will veto the bill Tuesday.

Terry Dellmuth, Gov. Milton J. Shapp's adviser on human services and co-chairman of the task force, said he had recommended that Shapp veto the bill sponsored by Rep. W. William Wilt, R-Blair.

Task force strategy Friday focused on rallying the legislative votes in mid-November to prevent a successful override of the expected veto or, failing that, taking an early court test of the legislation's constitutionality.

Mark Segal, spokesman for the Gay Raiders, Philadelphia, told the task force "we don't exactly know where Attorney General Robert Kane stands on gay rights."

"If he would write an official opinion that the bill is unconstitutional, it could have a strong impact on the legislators," Segal said.

Cavs, ESSC to remain unbeaten?

Both East Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State College face key games today in their battle to remain undefeated in this young football season.

The Cavaliers, 5-0, face Notre Dame of Green Pond, also 5-0, in a most important Centennial League contest at Green Pond that could go a long way to deciding the eventual league champion in the loop's first season.

The Warriors, also 5-0, host Mansfield in a Homecoming battle that the Warriors must win to go into another key contest next week with Millersville atop the Eastern Division of the Pennsylvania Conference.

Sports Writer Joe DeVivo will have the story from Green Pond and Sports Editor Joe Miegoc will have the ESSC-Mansfield details Monday in your Pocono Record.

James Rainwater . . . Nobel laureate

American shares prize in physics

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — An American and two Danes won the 1975 Nobel prize in physics Friday for their nuclear research and an Australian and a Swiss shared the chemistry award for simplifying production of biological medicines.

Five Americans have been given Nobel prizes so far this year, one in economics, three in medicine and one in physics. Friday's physics prize went to American James Rainwater of Columbia University in New York City and Danes Aage Bohr and Ben Mottelson for their discovery that the atomic nucleus is not always round, but can also be egg-shaped. This has helped to understand the fusion process and the division of the atomic nucleus.

John Warcup Cornforth, 58, a deaf Australian working in England since 1939, and Vladimir Prelog, 69, a native of Yugoslavia, but now a Swiss national, were honored for their work on enzyme reactions and research into organic molecules and reactions.

The prizes were awarded by the Swedish Academy of Sciences. The five scientists will get equal shares of the combined $286,000 prize money for the two awards with their Nobel diplomas at ceremonies in Stockholm Dec. 10.

Rainwater, 58, works at the Physics Department of Columbia University.

Bohr, 53, works at the Niels Bohr institute in Copenhagen named after his famed father, winner of the 1922 Nobel physics prize for his investigation of the structure of atoms. The elder Bohr helped in the development of the atom bomb.

Federal agency asks crackdown on CB radio misuse

By MARK BROWN
Hawthorne News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The General Accounting Office (GAO) Friday recommended stiff penalties for truckers and other operators who illegally use Citizens Band (CB) radios.

In a report to Congress, the GAO warned that the widespread abuse of CB will not diminish unless stringent licensing rules are established and enforced by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The GAO undertook its investigation of CB abuses after the FCC received more than 31,000 complaints of violations last year. These complaints included 250 investigation requests by members of Congress.

CB violations accounted for 55 per cent of all complaints received by FCC about radio interference, the study shows.

The report notes that CB's usefulness for business and personal communications has been "seriously impaired" by widespread violations of CB regulations.

These violations contribute to CB channel congestion, interference with television reception and the operation of other equipment, and make it difficult to enforce speed and truck weight laws, the report said.

The GAO blames these continuing violations on the FCC's inability to enforce existing rules, particularly the lack of authority to fine unlicensed CB users.

Although no reliable figures exist, an estimated 50 to 80 per cent of all violators are unlicensed operators. While licensed operators can be fined, unlicensed operators who are eventually tracked down are merely sent warning letters about the rules they are breaking.

Default threatens rule by decree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Default by New York City could pit 160,000 individual bondholders and some of the nation's largest banks and most powerful unions in a battle over who would get paid first.

James Leblenthal, a major municipal bond dealer, said the result would be "government by court decree."

"The courts will take over," he said. "The courts will decide if you lay off one more teacher or one more file clerk in city hall."

The city avoided default Friday when the teachers' pension fund agreed to put $150 million more into the city to help it pay its immediate debts. But default at some time in the near future still was a real possibility.

No one knows for sure exactly what the impact of default would be on the city, state and nation because there is no precedent for a financial failure of the magnitude faced by New York City.

But a flurry of lawsuits appears to be inevitable.

The legal battle would be fought principally on the issue of who gets paid first—bondholders or city worker providing essential services?

Every New York City bond carries a notation that it is backed by the full faith and credit of the city and is supported by a constitutional provision giving the holder first lien on city revenue in the event of default or bankruptcy.

That would appear to mean bondholders get paid first. But many attorneys believe the constitutional requirement that the city protect the health and safety of its citizens would override the bondholder's lien.

If that's the case, police, firemen and other health and safety workers, including perhaps garbage men, would get paid first.

Default does not mean bankruptcy. What default means is the city would not pay its bills on time. It is likely everyone eventually would get paid in full.

Portugal goes after militia

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Portuguese President Francisco da Costa Gomes Friday ordered civilian armed militias to turn in their guns within eight days, and gave the armed forces permission to fire on militia-men shooting at other civilians or security forces.

The hard-line communique came in the wake of an accusation by mutinous troops in the northern city of Porto that the northern military command had reneged on an agreement not to punish them for their insurrection.

The group threatened armed revolt unless the situation changed, and said it was seeking support from other units of the armed forces around the country.

Costa Gomes, in announcing a wide-ranging crackdown on the armed civilian militias, also asked civilians to give security forces any information leading to the recovery of missing arms.

Thousands of weapons have disappeared from military storehouses in recent months, many ending up in the hands of extremists groups.

The communique asked civilians immediately to hand over "armament, pieces of armament and other devices they might have in their possession."

He said authorities would allow the civilians eight days — until Oct. 24 — to comply voluntarily before imposing punishment.

He authorized the armed forces to "make use of their arms against those who use arms of war against civilians and/or military forces or police."

'Invasion force' protests colony

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of Moroccans lined up Friday to join a peaceful invasion of the Spanish Sahara led by King Hassan II.

The government set up recruiting booths all over the country Friday. Within hours, according to reports flooding into the capital, hundreds of thousands of men and women had signed up.

City officials in Rabat and Casablanca said they already had "more than enough" people signed up the very first day.

In a nationwide broadcast Thursday night, the King called for a 15-day march by 350,000 unarmed Moroccan men and women into Spanish Sahara to protest a World Court ruling in the Hague invalidating claims of sovereignty by Morocco and Mauritania over Spain's last African colony.

"I will be the first volunteer," he said.

"We will all be unarmed because we do not wish war with Spain," Hassan, 46, declared. "Spain will take all responsibility for any loss of human life."

Spain, which has controlled the territory since 1884, has asked the U.N. colonization committee to set up a referendum, letting the 88,000 inhabitants vote on self-determination.

The World Court ruling was made at the request of the United Nations after both Morocco and Mauritania filed conflicting claims of sovereignty over the phosphate-rich, Colorado-sized colony.

Hassan set no date for the march but said 10 trains a day for 12 days would transport the marchers from northern and eastern Morocco to Marrakesh. From there, 7,813 trucks would take them to Tarfaya, just north of the Spanish Sahara frontier.

Hassan said the marchers would be supplied with 17,000 tons of food, 23,000 tons of water, 2,590 tons of motor fuel and 220 ambulances.

There was no immediate reaction from Mauritania.

Hassan said the marchers would not take up arms against Spanish troops in the territory. "We will greet them and let them shoot us if they wish," he said.

UN panel condemns Zionism

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The General Assembly's Social Humanitarian and Cultural Committee passed a strong anti-Zionist resolution Friday night over fierce American, European and Israeli opposition. The committee made its decision after voting down a motion by Sierra Leone to defer the vote on the resolution until next year. In its main paragraph, the resolution "determines that Zionism is a form of racism and racial discrimination." The United States denounced the resolution as "an obscene act." Israel rejected it as "blatant anti-semitism." But Arab delegates insisted that the resolution was not directed against Judaism and religion, but against a "nationalist and racist" Jewish State.

Egypt-Syria rift widens

CAIRO — Egypt announced Friday that it was withdrawing warplanes and pilots stationed in Syria since before the 1973 Middle East war as protest against Syrian criticism of Egyptian peace policies. The move indicated the widening rift between the two countries — which were allies during the 1973 war. The rift began when Egypt signed the second military disengagement agreement with Israel last month. Syria denounced the accord, and accused Egypt of opting out of the conflict with Israel.

Pastors resent bingo critic

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. — Five pastors from Roman Catholic parishes near here have filed motions in Bucks County Court seeking to prohibit a 50-year-old female machine operator from interfering with services at their churches. "I'm against sales, gambling and advertising in God's House," said Victoria Namura, admitting she makes critical remarks during services. The pastors asked the court to bar her from entering the churches or order her to be quiet while in church. Joseph Robinson, attorney for the pastors, said Namura makes "loud and scurrilous attacks on" the pastors and "loud objections and comments respecting various aspects of religious services." Robinson said Namura is specifically disturbed with bingo and raffles playing at churches.

Housing starts down, permits up

WASHINGTON — Strikes in the construction industry in September depressed housing starts by 2 per cent, but permits for new construction increased 8 per cent, the Commerce Department said Friday. The rise in building permits to the highest rate in 14 months offset the negative impact of the strikes in the long range housing outlook. Commerce said housing starts were at an adjusted annual rate of 1.24 million units. Although lower than the revised August figure of 1.268 million units, the September rate was still at the second highest level of the year.

Cigarette firms cited for lapse

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department Friday charged in civil damage suits that the six largest American cigarette manufacturers have failed to place required health warnings in all cigarette advertising. The suits filed in U.S. District Court here seek unspecified damages for not properly displaying notices that say: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Your Health." The companies are Lorillard, Philip Morris Inc., American Brands Inc., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp., R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Corp. and Liggett and Myers Inc.

Storms wrack southland

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — Pounding rainstorms caused by a tropical depression combined with a cold front battered the Deep South Friday, causing streams and rivers to overflow and streets and highways to flood throughout the area. The storm produced up to eight inches of rain in Mississippi and between four and six inches in Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and north-west Florida. Tornadoes spinning out of the system wrecked a home and damaged several others in Dothan, Ala. Other tornadoes in Florida ripped through a half-block section of Panama City and trailer park at Pace, a town just north of Pensacola. No injuries were reported.

New Watergate prosecutor sworn

WASHINGTON — Charles F.C. Ruff was sworn in Friday as the fourth special Watergate prosecutor, pledging to pursue any new leads but vowing to keep secret criminal evidence amassed against Richard M. Nixon. Ruff, 36, succeeds Henry S. Ruth Jr. as the director of the Watergate Special Prosecution Force that in the last 28 months convicted some five dozen men for wrongdoing in the greatest political scandal in American history.

Breakthrough hoped in kidnaping

DUBLIN — Irish police have received a second taped message from Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema repeating his kidnappers' demand for the release of three IRA prisoners, a police spokesman said Friday. It was the first communication from Herrema since Monday's dramatic message in which he said his abductors had threatened to cut off one of his feet and mail it to police as proof he was alive. The tape was received amid predictions that Herrema's kidnaping might be moving toward the "breakthrough stage."

Kissinger off to China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger headed for China Friday, undertaking for President Ford a groundwork diplomatic mission similar to the one he performed for Richard M. Nixon in 1971.

This time, though, there are significant differences in the situation. Kissinger is performing publicly, whereas his trip for Nixon was carried out in strictest secrecy.

In any case, administration sources expressed hope that a new breakthrough in Sino-Soviet relations can spring from Kissinger's preparatory work and Ford's visit expected some time after Thanksgiving.

Patty was quick to join revolution

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst began her conversion to the Symbionese Liberation Army even while she was still blindfolded after her kidnaping and asked to participate in the group's sexual activities willingly a short time later, it was reported Friday.

Two newspapers quoted documents found in the SLA San Francisco hideout where she was captured last month. SLA "soldiers" Emily and William Harris were seized the same day.

The heiress is scheduled to appear in federal court in San Francisco Wednesday for a report by psychologists and psychiatrists on whether she is mentally competent to stand trial and what part "brain washing" may have played in her behavior.

The Harrises pleaded "not guilty" in a Los Angeles county court Friday to 11 criminal charges and the judge in the case acidly refused to disqualify himself from the trial on a defense accusation that he was prejudiced against them.

Miss Hearst is a co-defendant in the case but she was not present. She is being held in San Francisco on federal bank robbery charges.

The Los Angeles Times said the documents indicated that the 21-year-old Patty entered into sexual relationships not only with men but also women. It said the SLA first suspected her of putting on an act to secure her release but later enthusiastically accepted her as one of them.

The San Francisco Examiner said that after the blindfold was removed Miss Hearst was offered the opportunity to "walk freely out of the door" and return to her family but that she declined.

"She seized on every opportunity to learn," the copyright article in the Examiner said.

Machineguns spout 'religion' in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moslem and Christian militiamen fought deadly machinegun duels in several parts of Beirut late Friday, threatening to shatter the city's shaky ceasefire.

Clashes that began east of the city spread through the suburbs and finally to the center, leaving at least seven persons dead and 13 wounded.

The deaths raised the overall toll since Lebanon's fourth round of factional fighting erupted in mid-September to nearly 575 dead and 1,350 wounded.

Machinegun fire echoed through the city's eastern suburbs and in its downtown and uptown commercial centers shortly before midnight.

Three large explosions, believed to be dynamite thrown at shops from speeding cars, rocked the high-uptown residential area of Ras Beirut.

Small arms fire ripped through the sea-front coastline area near Beirut's luxury hotels and in downtown Debbas Square.

Explosions and tracer bullets lit up the sky over eastern Beirut as Christian rightists and left-wing Moslems battled from barricades surrounding suburban strongholds.

The fighting followed a wave of kidnappings in the capital and clashes earlier in the day around the city of Zahle 25 miles east of Beirut.

Election time influences state energy-tax package

By KATHY RYAN
Harrisburg Bureau
Outaway News Service
HARRISBURG — Leaders of the state House of Representatives declined to take action on a controversial package of bills dealing with gasoline tax and vehicle registration fee increases before the November elections, Pocono lawmakers said.

Rep. Ralph Musto, D-Luzerne, described the mood of the legislature this week. "I don't think they're prepared to vote any increases."

Although the Senate went home Wednesday, the House waited until Thursday to call an election recess until Nov. 17.

The bills were considered controversial because one proposed an increase in the gasoline tax from nine cents to 11 cents-per-gallon. Annual car registration fees would jump from $14 to $28.

"It was a decision of the leadership of both sides," Rep. Russell Kowalyszyn, D-Northampton, said.

"They don't want to deal with anything controversial until after the election."

Kowalyszyn said the House leadership felt action on the package of bills "might affect the outcome of the November elections."

PennDOT's proposed budget was cut $129 million, and the package would mean an increase of $190 million in revenue for the transportation department. An estimated $30 million in revenue would return to local governments in liquid fuels taxes for maintenance of township roads.

Pocono legislators report mixed reactions to the bills.

Rep. William W. Foster, R-Wayne, who serves on the House Transportation Committee, said he voted to release a series of bills calling for the increases because he "felt they were of extreme importance."

But Foster added, "it's all very well and good to say we need more money. We need more concrete information than listening to the secretary (Secretary of Transportation, Jacob G. Kassab) ranting and raving 'we need this.' I want some facts and figures on what they're doing — what they plan to do with the money."

Rep. Russell Kowalyszyn, D-Northampton, said he was "opposed to any changes in the tax or fee schedule until there's a showing of efficiency and economy in the transportation department in light of admissions by Secretary (Jacob) Kassab himself that he does not have full control over its operations."

Rep. Ralph Musto, D-Luzerne, said he is "definitely not in favor" of the proposed bills, but he feels there is a need for increased revenues to the highway department.

Musto said money was needed for maintenance of the "hundreds of miles" of state and interstate roads in his legislative district but the current bill would mean "too much increase" in gas prices.

"I think there's definitely going to be some compromises made," Musto said.

Sen. Frederick H. Hobbs, R-Schuylkill, said he opposed an increase in the gasoline tax because "I don't think the Department of Transportation has at this time justified its need in terms of a more efficient program within their own department."

Hobbs said any proposals to increase automobile registration fees should be adjusted to reflect the size of the car being registered. He said this would reflect a person's ability to pay the registration fees because someone registering a luxury car, such as a Cadillac, was in a better position to pay higher registration fees.

Sen. T. Newell Wood, R-Luzerne, said, "I'm convinced we need more to maintain highways. Both Republicans and Democratic administrations didn't want federal aid — it's (highway maintenance) entirely state funded." Citing projected highway department deficits in the hundreds of millions of dollars, Wood said something has to be done to "trim the debt in the highway department."

Wood said, "it's cheaper for people to pay a little more in taxes than pay $100 to get their car re-aligned."

Pike town officials review pending legislation

Pike County Bureau
MILFORD — Pike County township officials were confronted with a host of bills at their annual convention Thursday, but they didn't have to pay a cent on any of them.

The bills, in the form of pending state legislation, were outlined to officials at the Tom Quick Inn, Milford by B. Kenneth Greider, assistant director of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors.

Greider was one of six speakers who attended the convention that attracted about 60 township officials.

State Rep. William Foster, 139th district; and Frank Gilhooley, state bureau of municipal Services; were also expected to attend the convention, but did not show up because of other commitments.

Greider highlighted several state bills that would affect local government including one that would give townships an equal share of a 20 cents an acre state payment on state game and forest lands in a county.

The law currently allows an eight cent reimbursement to school districts, eight cents to the county and four cents to townships.

"We believe we should be getting the eight cents, too — not only to make it uniform, but also because we are the level of government (townships) that supply services like road maintenance and fire fighting," he said.

Other pending bills that Greider mentioned include:

— A bill that would increase the penalty on delinquent taxes anywhere from 3 to 9 per cent. Greider explained that many corporations and businesses are finding it easier to keep their money in the bank and gain interest during the penalty period. He said the penalties should be made "stiffer" to discourage this practice.

— A bill that would raise the maximum real estate tax millage from 14 to 17 mills. Townships could go to court to get an extra five mills if necessary.

— Greider also explained bills in the state house that deal with township insurance and increasing the minimum wage. He also mentioned a bill that would set a definite procedure for filling supervisor vacancies.

Some of the acts that have already been passed and will effect local governments, according to Greider, include:

— act 31 which provides for

West End wanderings

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter
GILBERT — The hottest news of the week is that the ecumenical tent has become so popular at the West End Fair that the committee sponsoring the tent there each year is looking into building a permanent structure at the fairgrounds for visitors.

Prices are now being worked up and we're told by a reliable source that the West End Fair directors will soon be consulted about the design specifications for the proposed building.

Along with the new fair plans, the committee has decided next year to sponsor a Sunday morning service right at the West End Fairgrounds.

And speaking of the activities of the Ecumenical Committee, you can look forward to another of those interdenominational Thanksgiving eve services in the West End this year. The details are not finalized yet, but we'll keep you informed. And how would you like to have a church directory listing all the services held in the West End? The committee is now working one up.

Would you like to use the facilities at the Western Pocono Library, but you need extra large print because of your eyesight? Now the library is in the process of acquiring large print editions and tape cassettes just for you. We'll let you know when they arrive.

The Pleasant Valley Band Parent's Association will hold their next regular meeting at 7:45 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 21 in the band room at the high school. All band parents are urged to attend.

Are you wondering what ever happened to that flea market that was scheduled for last Saturday at the Chestnut-hill Elementary School? It was rained out, but will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., this Saturday at the same location. Profits will benefit the Pleasant Valley Elementary Home-School Association.

The annual Halloween UNICEF party sponsored by the Zion United Church Lutheran in Brodheadsville will be held again this year at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 30 at the church. The party will follow a special 7 p.m. service. Children will be given their UNICEF collection boxes during church school on Oct. 26, but all children in the West End are invited to participate in the collection and the party. Additional boxes can be obtained at the Western Pocono Community Library. Collection will take place from Oct. 26 to Oct. 30 and money received will be dedicated at the Oct. 30 service. The party will include refreshments, games, and costume prizes. It is the fourth annual UNICEF collection sponsored by the church.

Nobody seems to know if James Bradley of Bartonville still has his name in to be re-nominated to the Hamilton Township Planning Commission. His nomination has been dropped twice when two supervisors refused to reappoint him to the board. Bradley is on vacation and will not know about the latest action until next week.

The Downtown Sciota Liberty Belles will hold a new member night and special reorganization meeting at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 21, at the Twin Willows restaurant in Sciota. The group will discuss ways to raise money for the Western Pocono Community Library. All women in the West End, regardless of where they live, are invited to join the group.

The annual dinner meeting sponsored by the Monroe County Extension Service is set for 7 p.m., Oct. 27 at Mountain Lake House in Marshall's Creek this year. The cost is $5 per person for the roast spring chicken dinner with all the fixings. Reservations must be made by calling the extension office at 421-6430 by Oct. 13.

The annual Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) banquet will be held at 7 p.m., Nov. 1 at the Polk Township Firehouse in Kresgeville. William Baumgartner of Kunkletown R.D. will serve as master of ceremonies. If you're interested in attending, tickets are $6 and must be purchased from the ASCS office before Oct. 22.

The annual Youth For Christ RIOT, originally scheduled for Saturday night, Oct. 18, has been rescheduled for 7:29 p.m., Monday, Oct. 27 at the East Stroudsburg Gymnasium on East Courtland Street. The program is open to all teenage students. Admission is free and refreshments will be available.

The Village of Sciota will sponsor its 11th annual Halloween parade at 2 p.m., Saturday Nov. 1 at Twin Willows in Sciota. The party will be held rain or shine and prizes will be awarded. Children will also receive a free bag of candy. Refreshments will be available. Last year more than 125 children participated. Cash donations will be accepted by all local merchants or will be picked up personally by Halloween committee members.

Just by looking at the amount of black in the rings around those fuzzy West End caterpillars, the oldtime weather forecasters here are calling for a long hard winter.

A rose by any other name isn't necessarily as sweet

By ALAN L. OTTEN
Dow Jones-Ottaway News Service

WASHINGTON — "Lobbyists" are bad. So are "tax loopholes." But "public interest organizations" and "tax reform" are good. "Programs," the government kind, are beginning to sound bad, unless they're "comprehensive" programs, and then they're okay.

Words shape reactions, and public reactions shape public policy. If most people think all lobbying is corrupting Congress may vote a tough antilobbying law. If something is really a tax loophole, it obviously ought to be closed.

Even if a reporter is aware of this problem of colored words, it's hard to catch them all the time. That's why readers and viewers need to be extra alert.

One word beginning to take on a pejorative overtone is "incumbent." Though it merely means a person who holds an office, the way it's often used of late strongly suggests someone who really ought to be thrown out of office — a petty political hack who seeks only to keep right on swilling at the public trough.

Malpractice bill: Don't cheer yet

We suspect doctors and hospitals were immensely cheered by the enactment of a medical malpractice law, signed Wednesday by Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp.

We'll save our cheers until we see what happens to malpractice insurance premiums.

If the thing is done right, the insurance industry will do actuarial studies on how much the typical successful malpractice suit will bring as a settlement, figure a reasonable profit over expenses, and set rates that will be considerably lower than those now prevailing.

Again, we'll wait and see. Because the law, which calls for a screening board to review suits filed and toss out those deemed frivolous and of no legal standing, also lets insurance companies escape the risk of a high settlement by assessing hospitals, doctors and other health care providers to set up a $15 million catastrophe fund to be run by the state and pay all claims over $100,000.

The basis for high premiums, says the insurance industry, is the high risk it takes. Remove the risk and you remove the rationale for that high profit. You put your business on a supply and demand footing with value determined by service rendered. In essence, an insurance company is no longer taking a high risk, but selling a service.

Hospitals and doctors are now assuming the risk through their catastrophe fund. We're pleased action was taken to cure the malpractice problem, but the benefactor seems to be the insurance industry rather than the health care industry. When premiums go down substantially, then we'll cheer.

Don't judge hastily

Sen. William Proxmire has a good thing going with his "Golden Fleece" awards to those government agencies he feels are squandering the public's money with frivolous and far-fetched projects.

We're sure that public delights in reading the senator's scathing denunciations of such projects as the one he roasted Wednesday: government studies on how drunken fish behave and whether rats can be driven to alcoholism. Millions of dollars are being wasted on those projects, he said.

It makes for good reading. And certainly there are absurd wastes of tax dollars on inane projects that too often seem to be aimed at providing employment for otherwise jobless technicians and scholars. It's good to have someone watching them.

But the senator has to be careful, for more often such odd-sounding scientific studies aren't at all as useless as they seem. Proxmire lambasted a group of studies on why and how Australian aborigines sweat, for example. It sounded too good to be true, that the senator had gotten the goods on such a beautiful example of federal waste.

And, of course, it was. For it turned out that the studies enabled the Pentagon to redesign and improve combat gear for desert zones at a tremendous savings in both money and manpower — and with the still-bubbling Middle East cauldron in the forefront of international relations, that knowledge may some day be vital.

The point is that a superficial glance through the Federal Register doesn't provide enough detail to justify a scathing attack on a project that, by name, seems futile, foolish and facetious.

We wonder what Proxmire might have said about those Rand Corp. studies envisioning space travel, done back in 1946 — studies that laid the groundwork for our successful space ventures and manned moon landings?

Politics & People

Roscoe Drummond

What's wrong with politics?

WASHINGTON — Democratic opponents of President Ford's tax-cut spending-cut proposal publicly condemn it as "political."

They're quite right. It is political. So what? What's wrong with that? And what do the critics mean by "political"?

If by "political" they mean that the tax-cut budget-cut request to Congress is popular with voters, it surely is political.

Does that make it bad? Because the President advocates a program for reducing taxes and reducing spending next year, does it become imprudent, impractical or unwise because it is something the American people want?

I would consider the political acceptability of the President's proposal to be a welcome and valuable ingredient, not a liability. It strikes me that when Sen. Hubert Humphrey calls it a "cunning play" he is speaking in wry admiration.

The fact is that the Democrats are simply calling their own kettle black by all this talk about politics.

Consider this: The Democrats brand the Ford proposal to reduce taxes and reduce spending as "politics." But they don't call their program for cutting taxes and increasing spending "politics." Why does the White House program have appeal to the voters? There are two reasons:

1 — Most Americans would like to have the opportunity to spend more of their own money the way they would like to. A $28 billion tax cut means that this $28 billion would be used by the taxpayers at their own discretion, not redistributed by the federal government at its discretion.

They married on fifteen a week. Today that hardly buys her hat. A wife must make much more than that.

Surprise! A federal agency that's doing a good job!

Jeffrey Hart

People in general are down on Washington these days and with good reason, but I would like to report on one Federal agency in which things have actually been going very well for the past several years.

Certainly Washington richly deserves its current status as one of our three great negative symbols, the other two being New York and Berkeley. Berkeley, home of the Free Speech Movement and the SLA, is our cultural nightmare. New York is our financial nightmare. And Washington . . . ? Not only did the Federal government fight a long, costly and undeclared war, but — worse — managed to lose it. On top of that, the Federal government (IRS) is widely felt to regard the citizen's paycheck just about the way a school of piranhas views a bleeding cow. The government has been caught in all sorts of bugging, tapping and other privacy-invading. And it has ordered the busing of tens of thousands of unoffending school children on the basis of esoteric and false theory.

No wonder Gerald Ford stays out of town as often as possible. After all, when the bubonic plague struck London in 1665, the government had the good sense to move up to Oxford.

Pleasant exception

In view of all that, it is a pleasure to report himself is a tough-minded, articulate Yale Ph.D. He had taught at several first-rate universities and published several scholarly books. He knew obvious nonsense when he saw it. Above all, he had a sense of what Western culture is all about, and American culture as part of Western culture. It is not at all surprising that Berman developed excellent rapport with serious academicians throughout the country, and with people concerned for the humanities generally.

Under his direction, standards were quickly tightened, and, in consequence, staff morale rose. NEH, by insisting on genuine scholarship, was doing its part to raise standards everywhere. Berman also launched public programs of all kinds. One brought filmed versions of masterworks like "War and Peace" and "Hamlet" to the widest possible audience. NEH came forward to help museums and libraries when they found themselves against the wall financially. It established seminar programs so that younger teachers could work with great scholars.

If all Federal agencies performed this well, Washington would not have a bad name. President Ford could stay home. If an equivalent of Berman could be found and put in charge at the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, it would be a blessing for the republic.

Critical target

Of course, no human institution is perfect, and NEH recently became the target of some short criticism for what is known at the Endowment as "that reading list." Admittedly, the list is an Edsel, almost a B-1 bomber. What happened was that the Endowment gave a grant to the American Library Association for the purpose of producing an extensive list of books on American historical and political themes for the Bicentennial. The list is uneven, but also heavily faddist — left-revisionist on foreign policy, chicly anti-business. A loser.

But the Endowment is not in the business of doing the work a grant recipient has agreed to do. If you give Ernest Hemingway a grant to help him write a novel, and he comes up with "Across the River and into the Trees," you don't sit down and rewrite it for him. You might look more skeptically upon his next application.

Certainly no one is likely to suggest that an agency of the Federal government should itself be providing reading lists on political themes for the American public.

In spite of an isolated failure like that, however, the Endowment is in excellent hands and doing a commendable job.

Letters to the editor

Newspaper subscription no ambulance service ticket

Editor, The Record:

I would like to alert Pocono Mountain and surrounding area residents who are under the impression they are entitled to free ambulance service because they have subscribed to the Pocono Mountaineer newspaper.

This certainly is not a reflection on the Pocono Mountaineer paper. The Central Pocono Ambulance Assn. is very grateful for any added revenue and I'm sure all the other ambulance corps in the Monroe County Ambulance Assn. (MCAA) feel the same, but the way the offer is made by some of the callers leads most people to think they are entitled to free ambulance service.

The actual amount each association receives is very nominal. Ten per cent of each $7 subscription (70 cents) goes to the MCAA and this amount is divided among all the corps who are affiliated with the MCAA which will amount to five or six cents per subscription for each ambulance corps.

This certainly could not warrant free ambulance service, but will be used toward supplies for the ambulance or whatever each individual corps needs most.

Central Pocono Ambulance Assn. is presently having its Capital Fund campaign to raise money for an addition to its present building which is becoming more inadequate all the time. We are working for more memberships and donations from those who are current members. All new memberships made during the campaign will be used toward our building fund.

Anyone who is not in CPAA service area should consult the phone book for the ambulance corps serving their area, whether it is Barrett, Bushkill, West End or any of the other corps in the county association. They are all volunteers and I'm sure will be glad to supply you with membership application cards.

The only way you can receive free ambulance service is to join one of the corps serving your area.

The upkeep on the ambulance and the most modern equipment plus many volunteer hours of training are enormous and the corps could not survive without members. CPAA is very grateful to the Pocono Mountaineer for any added revenue. Even though I've stated above the fee is nominal, that is to try to clear the misinterpretation of the subscription offer.

Quite a number of people are of the impression the ambulance corps is selling the subscriptions, it is just that a portion of the fee goes to the MCAA to be divided between all 12 units in the association.

Secretary, Central Pocono Ambulance Assn., Inc.

CBs useful in buses

Editor, The Record:

I would like to express my appreciation and gratitude to the Delaware Valley CB Club for putting CB radios in our buses. I think what they have done deserves to be noted.

back home and find out what's on the voters' minds.

"Lobbyist" is another word that carries a heavy freight, conjuring up visions of business representatives lavishly entertaining venal lawmakers. Yet few lobbyists operate that way any more; most lobbying is perfectly proper, even highly desirable, citizen contact with government.

Congressional travel is habitually described in the press as a "junket" — with the word's image of lawmakers boozing in Paris nightspots, lying on Caribbean beaches, or otherwise living it up at the taxpayers' expense.

Most congressional travel, though, isn't this at all; rather, it's a subcommittee looking into ways to spend foreign aid funds better, or seeing whether Scandinavian prison procedures might work in the U.S. or finding out what Latin nations really think of U.S. policy.

Some terms change their tint, chameleonlike, from time to time. "National security" used to be a beautiful blanket to wrap around almost any cause to make it more acceptable. Since Vietnam and Watergate, anything advanced under the cover of "national security" has been automatically suspect rather than automatically sacred.

A "tax loophole" is quite definitely a means of escaping taxes, but most provisions currently attacked as "loopholes" were deliberately voted into the tax laws for purposes Congress considered valid: to promote mineral exploration, to help states and cities sell bonds, to encourage people to buy homes.

But the connotation now is of something done underhandedly, with deceit if not actual fraud. Recognizing the nasty note in "loopholes," some writers use "tax shelters" instead — a shelter apparently being somewhat more respectable than a loophole.

What does all this add up to? Simply that reporters and writers need to be extra careful in using these value-laden terms. They must try harder to distinguish between the lame duck lawmaker's extravagant final foreign fling and the subcommittee traveling to find answers to tough problems; between lobbying that is valid citizen participation and that which approaches bribery; between prerequisites that incumbents use chiefly to serve their district and those they use chiefly to serve themselves.

And just in case the writers aren't always able to keep these distinctions in mind, readers and viewers must.

'No, I insist! I'll send him the bill for the hunting trip. You bill him for the football tickets.'

HUD will give subsidies to reduce mortgage rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing Secretary Carla Hills said Friday the government will provide subsidies to reduce mortgage interest rates to 5 per cent for home-buyers earning about $200 a week in after-tax pay.

Mrs. Hills, who announced the policy change at her first news conference since becoming secretary of Housing and Urban Development eight months ago, said the program to begin in January will be an important stimulus to the housing industry by spring. It will triple the number of houses for sale at moderate prices and help reduce depression-level unemployment rates among home construction workers, she said.

Mrs. Hills said there are fewer than 60,000 homes on the market now at selling costs of $30,000 or less, the price range most attractive to working class and newly married people.

The median income program will enable families earning $9,000 to $11,000 a year to buy new homes or substantially rehabilitated older homes at subsidized mortgage interest rates as low as 5 per cent. Down payment requirements would be about $1,500 to $2,000.

These families have been shut out of the current market with home prices soaring near $40,000 and interest rates of 9.5 per cent.

Mrs. Hills said a majority of the eligible people would be subsidized for only a few years before working out of the program as their incomes rise.

Although the cost to the government will be only $264 million in two years, Mrs. Hills said it would stimulate about $6.5 billion in new construction.

The mortgages eligible for subsidies could be no higher than $28,800 for a large family in high cost urban areas like Houston, Los Angeles and Boston or $21,600 for new homes for small families in lower cost rural areas.

In order to qualify, a family's adjusted gross income could be no more than 80 per cent of the median income for the area. Payments for mortgage, insurance and taxes would have to be at least 20 per cent of adjusted gross income.

Fugitive could be 'anywhere'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal agents and police searched for fugitive convict Dennis D. Hunter in Chicago Friday—one week after he broke out of a maximum security federal penitentiary—but the FBI said he might be thousands of miles away.

"Quite frankly, we don't know where he is," an FBI spokesman said. Another FBI agent said, "We have nothing to go on...he could be out of the city by now."

Hunter, 23, a convicted kidnaper from Salem, Ohio, vanished Thursday in the obscurity of the city after eluding two downstate dragnets and forcing a truck driver, under threat of death, to bring him to Chicago.

FBI agents and police for hours Thursday night and Friday knocked on doors, passed out man-wanted fliers and quizzed pedestrians in a search in a predominantly Latin-populated, near North-west Side area where the fugitive jumped from the truck.

They checked out one report that Hunter had been seen at a service station in a white car with Oklahoma license plates and said it proved false.

Deadline set for filling mail order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission Friday told mail order houses that effective next February they will have to fill their orders within 30 days or offer customers their money back.

Delays beyond 30 days will be allowed but only if the customer agrees to wait longer to get what he ordered.

The FTC said it decided to wait until after the coming Christmas season before putting the rule into effect in order to avoid confusion in the industry, especially among firms which are already accepting holiday season orders.

Several areas — including magazines — are exempt from the rule. Only the first issue of a magazine or other serially-arriving delivery would be covered.

Joan Z. Bernstein, acting director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, said the exemption was made because studies indicate customers usually have trouble only with the first issue, and if they get that one they are usually home free.

Services connected with merchandise, primarily mainly photo finishing, would not be covered, nor would COD deliveries or shipments of live plants or seeds. Mrs. Bernstein said the government has received thousands of complaints from consumers who did not get the merchandise they ordered and were unable even to get a reply out of the company.

After Feb. 2 if a seller is unable to ship the ordered merchandise within the time he promises — or within 30 days if no specific time was stated — he must let the customer know and give the buyer the right to cancel the deal.

Kleppe sworn in as Interior head

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas S. Kleppe was sworn in as interior secretary Friday and promised President Ford he would fill that long-vacant, controversial job with a determination to turn America's natural resource problems into accomplishments.

Kleppe, a former Republican congressman who has been serving as head of the Small Business Administration, took the oath of office from Justice Potter Stewart during a jovial ceremony that brought several hundred people to the East Room of the White House.

Ford, who presided at the ceremony, predicted that Kleppe's "rural roots" in his native Kintyre, N.D., qualified him to develop a sound policy for extracting energy resources from federal lands while preserving their environmental beauty.

Punctuating his remarks with a few jokes about golf, Ford also noted that Kleppe was history's only cabinet member from North Dakota. Kleppe replied with a broad smile that it had been "a long way from Kintyre, N.D., to this podium."

Kleppe listed a number of problems he faces at the Interior Department — protecting the environment, developing energy resources and preserving the life style of the American Indian.

He promised "to take these problems and translate them into answers — into accomplishments." Referring to the environment, he said he would be "hard to know of anything that would be more important to use five, 10 or 20 years down the line."

The job of interior secretary has been vacant or in turmoil since May 1, when Rogers C.B. Morton left to head the Commerce Department. Morton was replaced in mid-June by Stanley K. Hathaway, who resigned just six weeks later when he was hospitalized for fatigue and stress.

A one time mayor of Bismarck, N.D., who was elected to the House in 1967 and ran unsuccessfully for the Senate in 1970, Kleppe now takes the reins of a complex department torn between development and preservation of natural resources. He soon must make important decisions about strip mining regulations, coal leasing and offshore oil leasing.

Rural pensions top cities'

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — State borough and township pension funds are in better shape than city pension funds, according to a report released Friday by the state Department of Community Affairs.

While 95 per cent of the borough and township pension systems were certified by their actuaries in 1973 or 1974 as having sufficient funds, only 10 per cent of the city police and fire pension systems and 44 per cent of the city non-uniformed pension systems were similarly certified.

"Compared with the cities, it can be said in general that the pension systems of boroughs and townships are in splendid condition," Community Affairs Secretary William H. Wilcox said.

"But this happier condition is not due necessarily to superior administrative competence," he said. "It reflects extra largess from the distribution of state funds for police and fire pensions — especially police."

Conrad M. Siegel, the actuary who prepared the report, said the state contributed an average $1,240 per active policeman for the borough and township funds, but only $500 for the city funds.

The state's contribution to police pension funds come from taxes collected from out-of-state companies.

Many people are not covered by a pension program with their employer.

If you're one of them, there is now a tax-deferred way for you to build toward your own retirement fund.

With a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Program you can defer taxes each year on up to 15% of your income or $1,500, whichever is less, by putting this income to work to help assure your future financial security.

A pension is nice to look forward to. But if it's not in the cards for you, give me a call and I'll show you what Metropolitan can do to take its place.

Ann Landers

Disappointed in answer

Dear Ann Landers: How COULD you, even in the name of humor, print the suggestion that a cook put a plastic bag over his head while peeling onions in order to avoid the fumes? Some unthinking reader is sure to try this suggestion and suffocate! I urge you to warn your readers against the use of plastic bags in such a manner, and especially to keep those things out of the reach of children!

Deeply Disappointed

Dear Dis: I was dumbfounded at the number of letters (and phone calls!) I received from readers who were upset by the suggestion that the onion peeler put a plastic bag over his head to avoid teary eyes and a running nose.

There is no way an adult can suffocate if he is in his right mind and sober.

As for keeping plastic bags out of the reach of children — now THAT makes some sense.

Dear Ann Landers: What can be done to protect yourself against a vicious relative? My husband's older brother has tried to dominate our lives as well as the lives of his other brothers and their families from the moment we married into the family.

There were five boys and each of the wives has had to fight to save her marriage from this eldest brother's venomous attacks. He writes letters to his younger brothers at work and tells them what their wives have been doing that he thinks is wrong. He then suggests "proper punishment."

It doesn't stop there. He writes lengthy reports on what he hears about their children and doesn't hesitate to outline what should be done about their "terrible behavior." In the meantime his own kids have been doing what the police and his frightened mouse of a wife is a candidate for a mental hospital.

Please come out swinging. We need your help.

Beat Down

Dear B.D.: No man or beast could become that powerful unless someone gave him the authority. The Gestapo routine should have been scotched the minute Big Brother began to stick his nose into your business.

It's up to you women to let your husbands know you will no longer tolerate the bully's interference. If you haven't the guts to do it you'll just have to suffer.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I wore a plum-colored outfit to the office. A woman I work with complimented me on the ensemble and said she has a suede bag exactly the same color which she had worn only a few times. "I'd love for you to have it," she said. "I'll bring it tomorrow."

Today she brought the bag and it was a perfect match. When I thanked her she said, "I didn't mean it as a gift. I had in mind selling it to you at cost. The price is $40."

I almost fell through the floor. I told her I couldn't afford it and thanked her anyway.

In all my life I have never sold an article of used clothing to a friend. Now I feel our relationship has been hurt. Am I naive? Am I stupid? Was she crass? I need your opinion.

Plum-Faced

Dear P.F.: Selling used clothing to friends, generally speaking, is not a good idea. The woman should have made it clear from the outset that she intended to sell you the bag. Forget the incident and hopefully she will, too.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill., 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mom's boyfriend

By Jean Adams

DIVORCE: (Q.) My mother and my father are divorced. I am very close to my father and live with him. Sometimes he visits my mother. But she also has a boyfriend. She started seeing him before the divorce.

I couldn't stand him right from the start and I can't stand him now. When I see him again I am going to tell him a piece of my mind and I am going to use four-letter words.

What should I do about this boy friend of my mother's? I hate him.

Disgusted in Massachusetts

(A.) The divorce gives your mother the freedom to have a new male friend and to marry him if she chooses. It also gives your father the right to marry another woman if he wishes.

What you, or your father, think about your mother's friend is not as important as what she thinks about him. To you he may not seem like a nice person. But she is the one to decide if he is the right person for her.

Please do not do what you are thinking about doing. It could hurt your mother badly. If you wish, talk to her about your feelings. But leave the final decision to her, and assure her that you will keep loving her no matter what she decides.

GOOD-BYE DOLLS: (Q.) Twelve is not too young to be going after or with boys, and too old to be playing with dolls, is it? I'm 12 and I'm not allowed to be seeing boys. My mom says I should still be playing with dolls. Who is right?

Not allowed in North Carolina

(A.) How long a girl plays with dolls, even in secret, is her business. When a girl doesn't want to play with dolls any longer, she shouldn't, no matter what her mother says.

But when she begins liking boys, what she does about that is in part her mother's business. Her mother should take care that she doesn't get hurt. You are not too young to have male friends, but you ARE too young to go out on dates with boys.

(Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Pocono Record, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of her great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

The bidding:

South West North East
2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 6 ♠

Opening lead — nine of spades.

There are players who can outsmart you if you don't watch out. For example, consider this deal where West led a trump against six spades. Declarer won in dummy with the ten, continued with the king, East showing out, then played a heart to the ace followed by the jack of hearts.

West, holding the Q-10-4 of hearts, made the remarkable play of the four on the jack, and declarer quite naturally assumed that West would have covered the jack with an original holding of the Q-10-4-3. Accordingly, South went up with the king of hearts, assuming that East would follow suit with either the queen or the ten and that the suit could then be established with one ruff.

But East showed out and declarer eventually went down one. He established dummy's hearts, but still had to lose a trick at the end.

Now let's back up to trick four when South led the jack of hearts and assume that West had covered the jack with the queen — which would seem to be the normal thing to do.

In that event, declarer would easily have made the slam by simply cashing the queen of trumps and conceding dummy's nine of hearts to West's ten. West would have found himself helpless whatever he returned.

It is true that South could have assured the contract by playing low from dummy on the jack of hearts lead at trick four. No distribution could defeat the slam in that case, as dummy's hearts would fully take care of South's losers.

But the fact is that most declarers in this situation would not even think of the possibility of West's ducking the jack with a holding of the Q-10-4, and they might well fall into the trap so skillfully set by West.

NOSE JOB — Jackie Cooper stars as Peter Campbell, a television news reporter whose hard nose for news is counter-balanced by his humanity toward the people involved in the stories he covers, in "Mobile One," ABC Television Network dramatic series which airs Fridays from 8 to 9 p.m.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — We arrived in Rome in a heat wave and a wave of resigned, if not contented, native panic. The economy hopeless, worse than New York's by far, another Italian government had fallen. The next would rise like a fractured Phoenix in its place, nothing improved in any of its aspect, the new government a simple reshuffle of the old, the minister of one department moving like checkers to another square where inevitably he would be jumped or kinged in all the hopeless glory of certainly checked if somehow secure careers.

The mood of visitors was about as usual, perhaps slightly muted; Rome residents were different. Gino Corigliano, a Rome journalist whose beat is economics-politics, voiced cheerful desperation. The future was hopeless, Gino said, "But the parties go on, longer and later, wilder and wilder, on the brink of apocalypse, like passengers on the Titanic the night before the iceberg."

Gino knew rich friends who couldn't borrow a lira at their banks despite owning vast lands and businesses. Why? "The banks simply don't have cash," he shrugged. Shrugs are more permanent in season this year than ever. There's a happy hopelessness in a Roman shrug, signifying the tragic end may be imminent, but what the hell.

The best expensive restaurants were crowded, the cheaper ones suffering. The lesser well off simply didn't have the money to pursue their favorite sport — eating out and bemoaning the fates; they could get that at home. But the best restaurants — Passetto's, Foitanello, Hostaria dell'Orso, were awash with flashed cash as if the affluent knew inflation would destroy their incomes — so why not use it now?

The last-named, Hostaria dell'Orso (Hotel of the Bear) is Rome's most prestigious, most historical and most fashionable restaurant. It has been there alongside the Tiber River for perhaps seven centuries — a virtual museum of tasteful antiques, good murals, rich hangings and brilliant detail. It's the last remaining in what once was the central area of medieval and renaissance hotels, a beautiful 14th century construction famous for its celebrated-to-notorious guests. In earlier centuries, it was the bohemian hangout of Rabelais, Montaigne, Goethe; guests attracted by the legends of Dante stayed there during the Jubilee of 1300. Its Orso-name came from a Roman bas relief with scenes of animals battling set in the corner of the house across the via. The exterior has changed little down the centuries; the interior, considerably.

Its street floor has "The Blue Bar," romantically dim, small dining rooms to right and left; the Blue Bar features one Romeo, who plays piano in virtually any style from classical to Neapolitan to bossa nova to H'wood film symphonics to jazz. Romeo will gamut through Cole Porter, Berlin, Arlen, Rodgers, Youmans, even David Raksin, a film composer whose hit is "Laura," but whose repertoire of compositions in the pianistic bible according to Romeo stretches beyond that singular film song: Romeo plays Raksin's background music for the film, "The Bad and the Beautiful," one of the rare screen scores with a nice fat theme suitable for solo piano, a cult piece, probably never to be hit. Paraded to popularity.

Upstairs at the Hostaria is a more formal dining room, perhaps last of the Roman restaurants insisting men wear neckties. The food is fine, the price fairly expensive, the service superb, the ambience marvelous; it stays open late, its Blue Bar awash with bluebloods and film stars. Great if you can afford it, worth a visit if only once.

For about 15 years, we have had a tiny villa in the little vineyard town of Marino, high enough in the Alban Hills to be cool at night, warm in the day, high enough for a view of the distant mountains and of Ciampino Airport where we used to land 20 years ago before Leonardo da Vinci Airport was built; Rome is in the distance, as is the sea off to the far left from our big terrace abait our little villa. Our two daughters have grown up there summers, have learned Italian, made close friends, as we also; and it all ended, temporarily we hope, early this year when a fire put it out of commission. It was and we trust again will be ideal for us, near enough to Rome (14 miles) to scoot in and out in our little Ford Escort, a fine gasoline-thrifty car in a land of expensive fuel ($1.60 a gallon, more occasionally, usually Sundays).

Over the seasons our landlord, Tony Prantera, added a little hotel of 30 rooms — and an Olympic-sized pool a couple of stairways above us — and centered all services in it, such as water, phone, gas, electric etc.; thus the fire which ruined its kitchens and our necessary services knocked us out of residence; not that our solution was untenable, quite the opposite. We stayed at the Hassler Hotel, atop the Spanish Steps, no more superbly located hotel in all of Rome.

It is one of the two truly de luxe hotels left in Rome — the Grand is the other, Ciga, the conglomerate with hotels all over Europe, owns the famed Excelsior and the Grand, the latter also centrally located amid office buildings a quick saunter from the American Embassy. Tourism's economics recently gave Ciga a virtual option to keep one of its two hotels truly de luxe, the other to welcome tourists up to and notably often including the busloads of travelers of the "If It's Tuesday This Must Be Belgium" stripe. Ergo, the Grand and Hassler remain the only luxurious hotels in the older pre-Hilton tradition.

The Grand is a great dowager of a hotel, formal and once inside its gloomy fortress-palace facade, truly Grand. The Hassler is something else — relatively small, 110 rooms, excellent service and a rare touch of personal, almost intimate service. It is owned by Mrs. Carmen Wirth, widow of celebrated Swiss hotelier, Oscar Wirth, who once also owned the Eden, near the Excelsior. The Hassler atop a Pincian hill has a splendid roof restaurant with a glorious view of Rome notably St. Peter's "Cupoloni," the top of the Vatican. The exquisitely tinted Roman roofs stretch forever from near to the distance in Rome's special color, a bright illuminated golden beige, lighter than the deeper travertine-tinted rooftops of Florence; chromatically to each its own, each beautiful.

The Hassler's location was the place where St. Francis of Paola on his way from Calabria to France predicted the friars of the order he'd founded some day would build a friary there; and they did.

Meals on Wheels observes its third anniversary

'MOVIN' OUT— Eleanor Baustien loses no time getting underway to make her rounds as a volunteer with the Meals on Wheels program. (Staff photos by Tomi Castell)

By TOMI CASTELLI
Family Fare Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — Rudy Manheim answered the ring at the door of his home at 59 S. Green St., East Stroudsburg, and smiled broadly as he recognized Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Lambert.

Mrs. Lambert handed him a hot lunch and sandwich from Meals on Wheels and chatted briefly before hurrying back to the car. Rudy's house was the first stop on their monthly run for the MOW program which takes them to 10 residences on their route.

"It is such a rewarding and enjoyable experience," remarked Mrs. Lambert, a retired kindergarten teacher, at one stop during the day.

Her husband is a retired employee of Northeastern Bank. They are typical of the volunteers who give of their time and resources at least once a month to help in the program. They use their own cars and pay for their own gas.

An air of eagerness and friendliness pervades the kitchen of the General Hospital of Monroe County as the daily crew waits to receive its quota of meals from Mrs. Evelyn Primrose, director of volunteer services for the hospital. The drivers quickly carry their own vacuum chests to their cars and are on their way in moments.

Warm reception

Watching the reception given the volunteers by the program participants leaves no doubt of the value of such a community effort. For some it is probably the only other person they see during the day.

As we drove up to Mary Warner's small trailer at the Brookside Trailer Park, it was with an air of anticipation on my part.

"You'll love Mary," said the Lamberts — and indeed I did. The trailer was immaculate and the flowers outside were matched only by the radiant — and somewhat mischievous — smile on Mary's face as she greeted us and exchanged pleasantries.

"The woods and creek make it a very pleasant place to live," Mary said, as we remarked on the fall beauty surrounding the trailer.

Among the dozens of daily calls that come to the newspaper desk, there is always at least one that makes us look forward to the next day.

Canadensis caller

Such was the call one day from an 80-year-old man in Canadensis.

"I don't know how to express myself," he said; "I am nearly blind and can't write a letter to the editor. My wife, who was the best cook in the area, is dead, and I live alone.

"The MOW volunteer, who is an elderly lady herself, brings me a nutritious and clean meal, and her visit is the bright spot of my day." Joseph Malone, a former New Yorker, just wanted to say thank you and pay tribute to the volunteers. For a man who can't express himself, he was very eloquent.

Third anniversary

Monroe County Meals on Wheels observes its third anniversary this week. The first meals were delivered on Oct. 16, 1972. Since that time, volunteers have made 33, 986 deliveries to a total of 298 different county residents, says William E. Treible, publicity chairman of the hospital.

The idea for the program came from the Volunteer Services, Church Women United. It started in March of 1972 when Mrs. William Wells, representing Volunteer Services, brought together several community agencies to consider whether or not there was a need for home deliveries of meals. Unanimous agreement that the need existed started the wheels turning.

"That informal group became a steering committee and, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wells, spent hundreds of volunteer hours planning and developing a workable program," says Treible.

Eight months after that first meeting, two volunteer teams left the hospital to deliver meals to 12 participants. Now 54 customers receive meals delivered by five teams and two relays. Active volunteers, numbering 228, many working in two or three capacities, make the program possible.

Each customer receives a hot dinner and sandwich supper five days a week. Meals are planned and prepared by the dieticians of the M.W. Wood Co. at the hospital. They are nutritionally balanced and, in addition, medically prescribed therapeutic diets are available and make up about half the meals served, according to Treible.

Various needs met

Need determines eligibility for the program. There are no age or income qualifications to meet. A screening committee, representing various community agencies, acts on the applications to confirm need.

The elderly and persons experiencing temporary or long term physical or emotional problems can receive meals.

Referrals come from private physicians, the hospital, the Visiting Nurses Association, the Salvation Army, and churches. The individual himself or members of his family may make application.

Amazingly, the cost of the program has remained at $10 a week since its inception, comments Treible. Individuals with financial need may apply to the screening committee for a reduced rate. Food stamps are also accepted.

Proper nutrition, hot meals, and low cost are only a part of the picture. A friendly visit from such volunteers as the Lamberts brightens an otherwise lonely day for many. Volunteers routinely check to see that everything in the home is all right and, if there seems to be a problem, can call for medical or other aid as needed.

Important benefit

One of the most important benefits of the program is that home deliveries makes it possible for the participants to remain in their homes and maintain their independence rather than resort to institutionalization. Thank you, volunteers!

MARY SUNSHINE — Mrs. Cliff Lambert delivers a hot lunch and sandwich supper to Mrs. Mary Warner whose smile and cheerfulness will brighten anyone's day. The volunteer's husband keeps the car motor running so that no time is lost in making deliveries. But there's still time to chat for a moment with the program participant.

PEN ARGYL — Announcement has been made of the engagement of Terry Ann Nolf to Willard Franklin Cook.

The bride elect is the daughter of Rodney D. Nolf, Easton, and Mrs. Fae Nolf of Nazareth. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard G. Cook of Nazareth.

Miss Nolf is a student at Pen Argyl High School. Her fiancé is a graduate of the same school and is employed at United Engineers and Construction, Inc.

The wedding is planned for Oct. 2, 1976.

Perennials planted right away

STROUDSBURG — If you wait too long to plant spring-blooming flowers, they will not bloom well the following season. That's because the roots must develop before winter and before the ground becomes too cold, advises County Agent John Withrow.

When you plant perennials, you can use the same location if you had healthy plants and no serious disease problems. Prepare the soil well so the plants have a chance to do their best. It's a good idea to spade deeply — eight inches down if possible. Add well-rotted organic matter to improve the soil while spading. You can use peatmoss, compost or well-rotted manure.

It's also a good idea to use a general complete fertilizer such as a 5-10-10 analysis. Generally one to one and one-half pounds of fertilizer per each one hundred square feet is adequate. Spade both fertilizer and organic matter into the soil well. Water the plants well after you've planted them. Then continue to water them regularly until winter comes to promote good root development.

A good perennial you can plant now is a peony bush. It will flower next spring if you plant it now. But if you wait until next spring to plant it, it won't flower until the following year.

By PHYLLIS FIAROTTA

Why is it that so many good ideas seem to come from the younger community? They've pushed ecology, pizza and tied T-shirts. Tie-dyeing is not a new idea, however. Its origin was hundreds of years ago and all the younger folks did now was rediscover it.

Tie-dye designs can be applied to skirts, curtains, lampshades, throw pillows and bedspreads. The possibilities span everything made of a fabric that will take dye.

Materials for tie-dye

Fabrics: Natural fibers such as cotton, silk and wool take dye excellently. Synthetic or synthetic blends vary in degree of color absorption, some do not take color at all.

Dyes: The boxed (commercial) dyes bought at five-and-dime stores are fine for tie-dyeing. Batik dyes are excellent potent dyes with a bright, almost vivid color and they are used in cold water, so shrinkage is minimized.

Resists: Cord and rubber bands are used to bundle the fabric in tight knots. Raffia is good for bulky fabric and cotton thread is used for making delicate knots.

You will also need an old pot or a two-pound coffee can for dyeing, and rubber gloves.

How to tie-dye

1. Wash your fabric thoroughly and press out wrinkles. If you use a large bulky fabric, such as a sheet, it should be moistened before being dyed.

2. Lay your fabric on a table with the right side facing up. Draw a carefully planned de-

Pennsylvanians to sparkle tonight

EAST STROUDSBURG — When Fred Waring brings his contemporary show to Koehler Field House at 8:30 tonight, the audience will not see a concert as one may assume — they will see a full scale variety show called "Music . . . That's Entertainment" featuring dancing, group numbers, ensembles, solos, humor, drum solos and through it all . . . excitement!

Tickets will be available at the door for the Fred Waring Show. Tickets are priced at $2 for students, $4 general admission, $6 reserved section, $10 patron. Special VIP tickets are also available and these include a Champagne Buffet at the Shawnee Inn after the show at $20 each.

The show is for the benefit of three local organizations and will be the third in the Waring Tour which began Oct. 14, with a show in Pittsburgh which received rave notices.

The days of a choral group standing on risers for two hours and just singing are over. Fred Waring was one of the first to realize this and pioneered the exciting variety choral shows. And lest the younger folks think the Waring

Show is just for the older generation only — they had better catch the young beautiful girls and handsome men singing a lot of current "Top 40 Chart Busters" as well as the so-called "old songs."

One of the featured groups will be the dynamic "Young Pennsylvanians," 10 young singers whose format has become a showcase for contemporary music with fast pacing, precision choreography, original music and beautiful voices. One of the high spots of their performance will be their famous medley of "hit commercials."

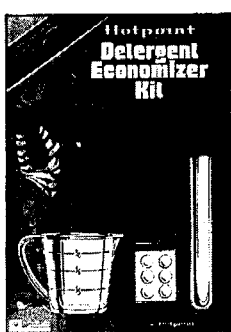

The sparkling, beautiful blond Sheila Flanagan, Waring's talented discovery from Kansas City, will be captivating the audiences on the brand-new cordovox. She will be adding to the Waring sound that is most definitely a today sound. Young people will think they are going to see the Rolling Stones when they walk into the Field House and see the array of electronic instruments . . . electric pianos, Moog Synthesizers, electric organs, electric guitars and basses, and the cordovox.

The Waring Blendors is another group within the Pennsylvanians and their specialty is, as their name implies, a beautiful blend of voices. The Blendors will sing much of the music that was popular during this summer's Music Workshop. Add to this the talents of Leonard Kranendonk, Rich Taylor, Ray Schroeder, Len Thomas and Tim Noble and you have a truly varied show . . . literally for all ages.

Supplements correct bone softness

Softening of bone due to the absorption of calcium is a frequent occurrence, especially in women who are passing through the menopause (change of life).

This is thought to be due to an inadequate amount of a female sex hormone.

The condition, known as osteoporosis, can produce a variety of symptoms. For a long time, estrogen has been used, both as a preventative and for treatment.

Now, a group of interesting cases has been reported that have been markedly benefited by the use of calcium and fluoride supplements, in addition to vitamin D.

Dr. Jennifer Jowsey, of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., has noted return of the calcification of the bone in patients on this regime.

Another report on the value of an enzyme injection for lumbar disc disease has just been released.

Dr. Henry W. Abfelbach, of Lake Forest, Ill., studied 37 patients, 29 of whom were distinctly improved after the enzyme treatment.

The process, known as chemo-nucleolysis, is being tried all over America in carefully selected patients.

The early recognition of deafness during infancy is the key to the hope of preventing its progress and even of producing a cure.

Dr. Robert Ruben, Professor of Diseases of the Ear, Nose and Throat at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City, has developed an extensive program, aimed at the early detection of deafness.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Stress your adaptability now. Day will be outstanding in one way or another, so make sure YOU are in line, in tune with the best.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Mixed influences. Step gingerly with those "on edge," touchy. Stand your ground where principle is at stake, however; give a little where generosity can aid.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Take helpful hints from all sources. From the least considered may come the best ideas. Leave no stone unturned in your quest for praiseworthy advancement.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Sow the seeds of good will and cooperation to assure greater happiness for all. You are being observed, can be a potent influence.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Meet all situations with equanimity. Don't anticipate difficulty; take whatever you meet in stride.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — A few delicate spots. Carefully document realities, possibilities, and do not fear to tackle a likely proposition — no matter how "far out" it may seem at first.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — A good day for travel, but you may need some additional information before taking off — especially where finances are concerned.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — While some changes are taking place, the overall atmosphere is governed by beneficent stars. Begin helpful discussions, and stick with any trying matters that may still need care.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — A good word from the right source may enable you to attain the recognition you believe you deserve now. You have just cause for optimism.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Don't brood over circumstances beyond your control, and do accept changes gracefully. They could be for the better, you know.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Don't take others — or yourself — too seriously. A bit of fun and frivolity will do wonders for your morale.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — A time for definitely clarifying your objectives. Get in touch with those who share your interest and, between you, work out a clear and concise program of action.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly sensitive individual, endowed with great artistry and a strong sense of justice. Whatever you undertake, you carry on with proficiency and imagination. The Libran has been known to rearrange, completely change an organization to a livelier, busier one. You have a great love of beauty, a romantic nature and are enthusiastic about all the best in life. Fields in which you could make the greatest success: the law, statesmanship, writing, the theater, medicine and government work. Birthdate of: Thomas Love Peacock, novelist, poet; Inger Stevens and Melina Mercouri, actresses.

Obituaries

William Bennett Sr.

BETHLEHEM — William A. Bennett Sr., 83, of Delaware Water Gap died Friday in St. Lukes Hospital, Bethlehem. He was the husband of the late Eva J. Bennett who died in December 1974.

Born in Cape Charles, Va., he was a son of the late William and Haviiah (McCurdy) Bennett. He was a conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad before retiring 20 years ago. For the past 10 years he had worked at A.B. Wyckoffs, Stroudsburg. He was a member of the railroad brotherhood.

He is survived by a son, William A. Jr. of South Braintree, Mass.; three daughters, Mrs. Virginia Gray of Pottstown, Mrs. Shirley White of Bell Haven, Va., and Mrs. Joan Noriega of Paramount, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Pearl Cassidy of Philadelphia; 10 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be private at the convenience of the family with the Rev. C. Paul Felton officiating at the William H. Clark Funeral Home, 1003 Main St., Stroudsburg. There will be no visitation.

Mrs. Carolina Ribaldi

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Carolina Ribaldi, 78, of 43 N. Fifth St., Bangor, died Friday night in the General Hospital of Monroe County. She was the widow of Anselmo Ribaldi.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home.

For The Record

STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for John P. Mannix of Stroudsburg R.D. 1, who died Thursday, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the William H. Clark Funeral Home, 1003 Main St., Stroudsburg. An obituary carried Friday in The Record left out the day of services.

Hospital adds staff in radiology

EAST STROUDSBURG — Richard P. Kennedy has joined the professional staff of the Radiology Department at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Dr. Kennedy received his M.D. at the University of Miami. He completed his internship at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, and was Chief Flight Surgeon for three years at the Royal Air Force Base.

Dr. Kennedy served a radiological residency at Philadelphia General Hospital in Philadelphia and has spent three years in full time radiological private practice before coming to General Hospital.

Square dance

KRESGEVILLE — The Polk Township Fire Company will sponsor a square dance from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight Saturday, Oct. 18, at the fire company in Kresgeville. The admission is $3, which includes a platter to be served between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Music will be provided by the Pocono Country Gents.

California or bust for cyclist

BARTONSVILLE — If you were driving on Rte. 611 Friday afternoon, you might have been surprised to see a middle-aged man in a red jacket riding a bicycle down the middle of the road in the pouring rain.

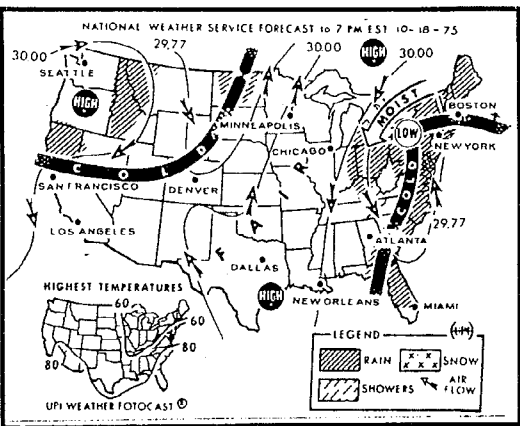

The man was Carl Spencer, and he was on the first day's leg of a cross-country journey from Coney Island, New York to San Diego, Calif.

The trip will commemorate the Marine Corps' 200th birthday, which is Nov. 10.

Spencer, 56, will ride approximately 3,000 miles in about 20 days. He will be carrying a capsule of water from the Atlantic Ocean.

Spencer served in the Marines from 1941 to 1943 and is a long-time bicycle enthusiast.

His route will cover New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Hamilton zoning proposal challenged

By MAUREEN RUFE

Pocono Record Reporter

SCIOFA — A month ago Laurence W. Snyder showed that he had done his homework in studying the proposed Hamilton Township zoning ordinance in detail and in making several oral suggestions for change; this week he handed in the homework assignment in writing to the local supervisors.

In a three-and-a-half page, single space-report and accompanying summary letter which was hand delivered to the supervisors, solicitor and planning commission chairman, the Snydersville resident called on the local officials to eliminate all the "may's," "maybes," and "could be's" in the proposed ordinance, and, if necessary, rewrite the code so that the average resident can understand it.

"By having these words in the zoning ordinance, no two people will have the same interpretation of a paragraph or sentence," said Snyder in part of the comment section. "... I move that we people of the affected areas and the supervisors refrain from passing these ordinances in their present state, and amend or even rewrite the entire book, if need be, so that everyone may fully understand the meaning and implications of these proposals."

Snyder also commended the supervisors for refraining from passing the zoning ordinance if there is any doubt on their minds regarding the proposal.

In his presentation, Snyder points to nine things which he said can not be done if the zoning ordinance was passed. Most of the points were covered in detail at the public hearing on the ordinance held last month by the supervisors.

In the written presentation, Snyder, also proposes seven amendments to the ordinance, which were not released to the public previously.

In the amendment section, Snyder proposes that notices publicizing a public hearing be run six days a week for two consecutive weeks instead of only once a week for two consecutive weeks.

He objects to a passage in the ordinance which states that "where physical or cultural features used as boundary points differ on the zoning map, it will be up to the Zoning Hearing Board to determine the location of that boundary. According to Snyder, there should be no difference to begin with.

Proposed amendment three would increase the minimum number of off street parking spaces required in the following areas: for commercial schools: from one space to five classroom seats to one space per one classroom seat; for manufacturing plants and laboratories: from one space to three employees (plus a percentage of floor area) to one space per one employee (plus a percentage of floor area); and hotels and motels from one space to one sleeping room to one space to one sleeping room plus one space for every two persons dining.

Snyder suggests that the minimum size of off-street parking for vehicles used for commercial and industrial use be upgraded from 12 feet wide and 35 feet long. He would require rather, the space to be a minimum of 18 feet wide and whatever the length or the longest trailer is plus 10 feet.

He suggests changing blasting time in the ordinance from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. to 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and says the Zoning Hearing Board should be required to make known all rules of procedure.

Some of the things that would be prohibited, according to Snyder, if the new ordinance is passed includes having an occupation in one's own home, if a person has any stock or trade, or if the operation exceeds 5,000 square feet or 25 per cent of the floor area. The ordinance, according to the resident, will not allow you to have more than one employed assistant in a home occupation.

The local resident objects to the two and a half-story limit on new building. It was explained at the hearing to Snyder, however, that this restriction was made for fire prevention purposes, since the Blue Ridge Fire Company fire trucks could not go beyond that level in case of emergency.

Snyder would like the commercial and light manufacturing areas and industrial areas enlarged, as well as areas of the township where mobile homes may be located.

He asked the officials to lift the two and a half feet restriction on walls, fences or hedges in yards and suggested that the officials define the word fence, where it is required around a pool. Snyder also suggested the height of that fence be lowered from six feet to three feet.

Finally, he proposed that signs directing people to events be allowed to be posted up to one month before the affair rather than only two weeks before the event.

Crucible to be performed by Second Act company

EAST STROUDSBURG — Arthur Miller's drama, "The Crucible," will be presented by Stage II-SCTA, the theater organization of East Stroudsburg State College, from Oct. 21 through Oct. 26 at the Second Act Theater, on campus.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. in the recently renovated theater, located on Isabel Street across from Hawthorne Hall.

"The Crucible" is set in Salem, Mass. in 1692. Four young girls begin a whirlpool of intrigue when they become involved with the strange ministrations of a West Indian servant woman, Tituba (Angela Wynn).

Hospital appoints manager

EAST STROUDSBURG — John Deeney of Philadelphia has been named Housekeeping Manager for the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Deeney is an employee of the Servicemaster Corporation, a national firm which provides housekeeping services for the hospital on a contract basis.

He fills a position vacated by Richard Moore, who after three years at General Hospital of Monroe County, has been transferred by Servicemaster to a Portsmouth, Virginia hospital.

Deeney holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Management from Temple University. He was transferred to General Hospital of Monroe County from Friends Hospital in Philadelphia. At one time he worked for the Pinkerton Security Company. Deeney is unmarried.

Q. On August 11 I contracted with a local aluminum contractor to apply a new roof to my home. He promised to take care of the job the following week. It's now October and he still hasn't come to do any of the work. Every time I call his office I can only reach his secretary and he never returns my calls. What can I do about my $200 deposit I paid?

F.S., Cresco

A. We left a phone message with the secretary and never received any response either. Your best bet is to file a complaint with the Bureau of Consumer Protection in Allentown. The address is 133 N. Fifth St., Allentown, Pa. 18101. Their office should be able to stir some action on the contractor's part.

Q. I have an old vase that was given to me several years ago. Recently when I polished it I found printing on the bottom which said "Hellenic-solid bronze." I am curious to find out the object's age and value. Can you find out for me?

B.H., Pocono Lake

A. Take a look in the yellow pages under antique dealers. It would be a lot easier to have a dealer examine the vase firsthand than for us to try and describe it over the phone. Select a dealer from the yellow pages and take it in for evaluation.

Aside to H.M., North Haledon, N.J.: A reader suggested a book service which may be able to help you obtain a copy of Wakefield's "Coal Boats to the Tidewater." Write to Jean's Book Service, Box 264, Hatfield, Pa. 19440. Give the author, title, publisher, and publication date if possible.

A. At the end of November a friend and I will be taking a vacation to Orlando, Florida. Both of us are 18-years-old and are interested in renting a car from a rental agency. I have a Pennsylvania driver's license and a card proving I have insurance. Is there an agency which will rent cars to 18-year-olds?

J.T., Stroudsburg

A. Of the four major agencies were were able to check on, only National Car Rental will rent to 18-year-olds. In order to qualify, however, you must have an accepted credit card or place a cash deposit upon your arrival in Orlando. Hertz, Avis, and Budget all have higher age minimums.

Police, fire calls

$200 accident

STROUDSBURG — Damage amounted to $200 when a car skidded on a wet Rte. 611 and struck a parked vehicle in Stroud Township Friday.

Police report that a car driven by Harriet R. Leeds of East Stroudsburg R.D. 5 was southbound on Rte. 611 at 4:20 p.m. when it skidded out of control and struck the rear of a parked car owned by Stewart Woody of 434 Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

There were no injuries and no charges were filed, police said.

Fire call

MARSHALLS CREEK — Fifteen men with three trucks from the Marshalls Creek fire department put out a small woods fire off Brushy Mountain Road, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 4 at 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Fire chief Richard MacDonough said about a quarter of an acre of woods near the Dale Larn development was burned. The fire was out in less than half an hour.

Woods fire

HENRYVILLE — About a quarter of an acre of woods behind Timberhill Lodge in Henryville was burned as the result of a fire that spread from a barrel in which leaves were being burned.

Approximately 17 firemen with two trucks from the Pocono Mountain fire department went to the scene but the fire was out when they arrived, according to Bruce Kencht, a lieutenant of the company.

$15,000 drug raid jails two students

BARTONSVILLE — A police drug raid late Thursday resulted in the confiscation of over $15,000 worth of drugs and the arrests of two 21-year-old college students.

Committed to the Monroe County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bail each were Kenneth Robert Scott and James Edward Schaeffer, both of Laurel Lake Estates, Stroudsburg R.D. 3.

Police said Scott and Schaeffer are considered major marijuana, hashish and cocaine dealers in the Monroe and Northampton County area.

Confiscated in the 9 p.m. raid were 20 pounds of marijuana with an approximate street value of $8,000; two pounds of hashish, with a street value of $3,200; and two ounces of cocaine valued at $4,000.

Also seized in the raid was approximately $3,000 in cash, a scale and associated drug paraphernalia.

Scott and Schaeffer were each charged with possession with the intent to deliver, possession and conspiracy, all under the Controlled Substance, Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act.

District Magistrate Earl Ammerman of Stroudsburg issued the search warrants and arraigned the two suspects.

Both Scott and Schaeffer are seniors at East Stroudsburg State College. Schaeffer is a student teacher in the Liberty Elementary School in the Wilson School District.

The drug raid was conducted by members of the state police from Swiftwater and Bethlehem, the Pocono Township police and Palmer Township police.

Court hears six cases

Defendant guilty of cruelty

STROUDSBURG — A Mount Pocono man was found guilty of cruelty to animals Friday by a Monroe County Court jury.

Xavier DeUgarte was given seven days in which to file post-trial motions.

Edwin Cantrill of the Monroe County SPCA said that DeUgarte kept his Doberman pinscher tied up outside his house during snow and cold weather, specifically Feb. 8, and refused to bring the dog in or give it shelter.

In other matters, Gerald Canfield of Stroudsburg was found guilty by Judge James R. Marsh of simple assault in a non-jury trial.

Canfield was charged with striking a friend's 5-year-old son on June 1. He was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $2,000 and given seven days to file post-trial motions.

Darius Batchler of Portland was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail after pleading guilty to theft.

He was arrested Aug. 11 by Stroudsburg police for taking a toolbox and tools from a man repairing an elevator in Sears.

Hilda Learn of East Stroudsburg was placed on one-year's probation after pleading guilty to theft. She was arrested for an incident July 12 in East Stroudsburg.

Ronald Evans of Scranton pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of an automobile in connection with an incident at the VFW post in Stroudsburg. A presentence investigation was ordered.

Charles F. Christman Jr. of East Stroudsburg was placed on six-month's probation in an accelerated rehabilitation program. He was charged with loitering and prowling at night by East Stroudsburg police in July.

Robert Jennings of Stroudsburg had a charge of driving while his license was suspended dropped.

A jury was selected for the trial of Richard Asero of Stroudsburg who is charged with burglary and theft at the Birchwood Airport. The trial will begin Oct. 30 because witnesses are not available.

By HARRIET LEEDS Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Faced with a cut in the amount it can spend to hire private snow removal contractors, the state Department of Transportation (PennDOT) is seeking help from the public sector.

Thomas Joyce, state highway superintendent for Monroe County, is hoping to lease Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Stroud Township equipment and crews to plow state roads within their boundaries.

Joyce received a 40 per cent cut in the amount he can spend to hire private contractors, a 70 per cent overall budget cut and has only 34 trucks to plow 1,350 miles of roadway.

He has informed borough and township officials of his willingness to pay $20 per hour per truck. State-owned roadways would have to be plowed before the municipality could work on its own roads, however.

The highway superintendent pointed out the benefits to the municipalities of handling all their own snow removal work.

Besides the financial reimbursement from the state, they would be able to plow the way they want and to handle all complaints from residents.

Stroudsburg borough manager Ralph Bender, Jr. said the borough could avoid things like high-speed plows throwing snow on porches and covering newly-shoveled sidewalks with snow from the streets.

Local PennDOT looks for plows

The biggest disadvantage he saw, however, was the borough would then be slower in getting its own streets plowed.

In Stroudsburg, state roads include Ninth, Eighth, Main, Park, Broad, Phillips, Sixth and part of Seventh Streets.

Another disadvantage,

Bender said, would be the added workload for borough employees, who now work between 18 and 25 hours at a clip when there is a severe snowstorm, Bender said.

Joyce said he sees no sense in the boroughs plowing their own streets before the major arteries are open.

Since Stroudsburg has about five miles of state roads and East Stroudsburg has about three and a half miles, Joyce said they are a "drop in the bucket" as far as the overall picture is concerned.

He said his object is to have those roads cleared by 7 a.m. when between 10,000 and 15,000 cars go over them.

"An all-out effort in the urban areas would free our trucks to clear the secondary routes in the boondocks for school buses," Joyce said.

Applicants disqualified

Open space rules change

STROUDSBURG — Thousands of acres filed for preferential assessment under Act 319 can be disqualified in accordance with the law, a Monroe County deputy assessor said Friday.

Paul L. Gerrity said in a letter to the county commissioners that "several thousand acres that have been applied for under 'Clean and Green' are now disqualified by law."

Gerrity said much of the remaining acreage under forest reserve will have to be visually inspected to determine if the land is producing trees.

Two weeks ago, the county set value rates under the program which ranged from $99 to $360 an acre for agriculture. Values for forest land ranged from $22 to $155 an acre and $225 to $325, depending on the use of the land.

Gerrity said amended rules and regulations governing the act make no mention of soil capability for forest reserve. The rules state that land must be stocked by forest trees producing 25 cubic feet per acre of annual growth.

Gerrity said that soil classes VII and VIII under forest reserve have been eliminated and that many more acres could be disqualified for not being suited to produce commercial trees.

About 43,000 acres of the 52,000 acres total are under forest reserve in applications for the program.

"While much of this land has the potentiality of 'soil capability,' it is overgrown with brush or is simply barren."

M-Smithfield candidates night

ECHO LAKE — The Middle Smithfield Democratic Club will sponsor a candidates night at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 25.

All candidates are invited to the meeting which will be held at the Casino Blue Ridge Inn Rte. 209 between Marshalls Creek and Echo Lake.

Mercy or murder: Karen Ann Quinlan touches us all

By DEBORAH ENYEART Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Karen Ann Quinlan has become a household word in the center of a moral, medical and legal debate.

Karen, 21, has been lying in a coma in a New Jersey hospital for six months after apparently consuming alcohol and tranquilizers.

Her doctors claim that there is nothing more they can do and that she will never recover, despite feeble and infrequent brain waves.

Her parents, after consulting priests and doctors, believe she is already dead and have asked that the machines keeping her alive be turned off.

A hearing on the parents' request will begin Monday, but attorneys, doctors, clergy and others are already debating Karen's right to live or die.

Area residents are also following the case with its many legal, medical and ethical ramifications.

More than one person contacted in a poll by The Record said his professional opinion was not always the same as his personal feelings.

Fr. John Bendik, of United Campus Ministries, said Catholics accept the medical definition of death as the absence of noticeable brain waves for 24 to 48 hours.

Fr. Bendik said if nothing else can be done for a patient, extraordinary means of keeping him alive are no longer necessary.

He thinks a machine could be disconnected if there was no brain activity and "no medical hope with the medicines they have now."

"If there's brain activity, that's homicide," he added.

Dr. Robert DeQuevedo, a member of Pocono Birthright and an obstetrician, said an older medical definition of death — no evidence of cardiac, pulmonary and voluntary muscular activity — has been replaced by the Harvard criteria of brain death.

The Harvard definition, which shows death as brain activity as a flat electroencephalogram (EEG), has been adopted by doctors but not many state legislatures.

"If the decision (to disconnect machines) is made under presently accepted criteria to be brain death, there's no problem morally or ethically," he said.

Problems and questions occur because the "legal profession is still working with it and trying to decide. Medicine is a little in advance of the law," DeQuevedo added.

Mrs. Kate Drake, an intensive care unit relief head nurse at the General Hospital of Monroe County, said a nurse doesn't determine when death occurs but she believes it is when an EEG shows no brain action.

If the EEG shows no brain activity, it isn't a homicide to disconnect a life-sustaining machine because the patient is already dead, she stated.

The Rev. Samuel Huffard, of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, said he has a "gut feeling" that people who are kept alive move between lives.

"There is a kind of passing back and forth between this life and the next. It is as though they are sometimes in this world and sometimes the other," he explained.

Rev. Huffard thinks that ideally the question of when such a machine could be disconnected should be discussed among family members.

"Apart from the ideal, there would need to be agreement on the part of the medical team that no hope for recovery remains," he added.

Dr. Theodore Kowalyszyn, an internist with a subspecialty in hematology, said the medical profession has established criteria to determine when the brain is dead by noting the presence or absence of brain waves.

Dr. Kowalyszyn said a machine could be disconnected without committing a crime if the medical definition is met, but legal questions remain.

"Medically doctors know what to do but legally there are complications. Any physician would seek legal advice first," he continued.

James F. Marsh, district attorney, said that in his opinion death has occurred when there is no longer "brain wave potential demonstrated and compatible with survival."

He thinks a machine should be turned off "when a panel of doctors can state that, but for the machine, the patient would be dead."

However, Marsh added that in Pennsylvania if a machine were turned off, "There's a good possibility a criminal charge would lie."

"My personal opinion differs from my interpretation of the law. I would probably have to prosecute," Marsh stated.

The Rev. Charles Park, of Christ Episcopal Church, said he believes death occurs when there are no brain waves.

"When brain wave action ends, the machine should be turned off. The person is no longer there as we knew him. I wonder what the person's spirit thinks of all this," Rev. Park stated.

"The person is dead. His physical life in his physical body has been maintained artificially," he added.

The Rev. David Ritterpusch, of Christ Hamilton United Lutheran Church, said it is time to develop a new definition of death.

"When the patient is unable to respond to present or future stimuli or when his future consists only of his past, that person can be said to be dead," he said.

"Everyone has a right to die when in fact he's already dead. A person should be allowed to die when he would have died normally," he stated.

"To sustain partial body functions artificially without hope of patient recovery is offensive, undignified, garish and reduces human life to laboratory superficiality," Rev. Ritterpusch continued.

Daniel Warner, county coroner, said he must determine how the patient died."

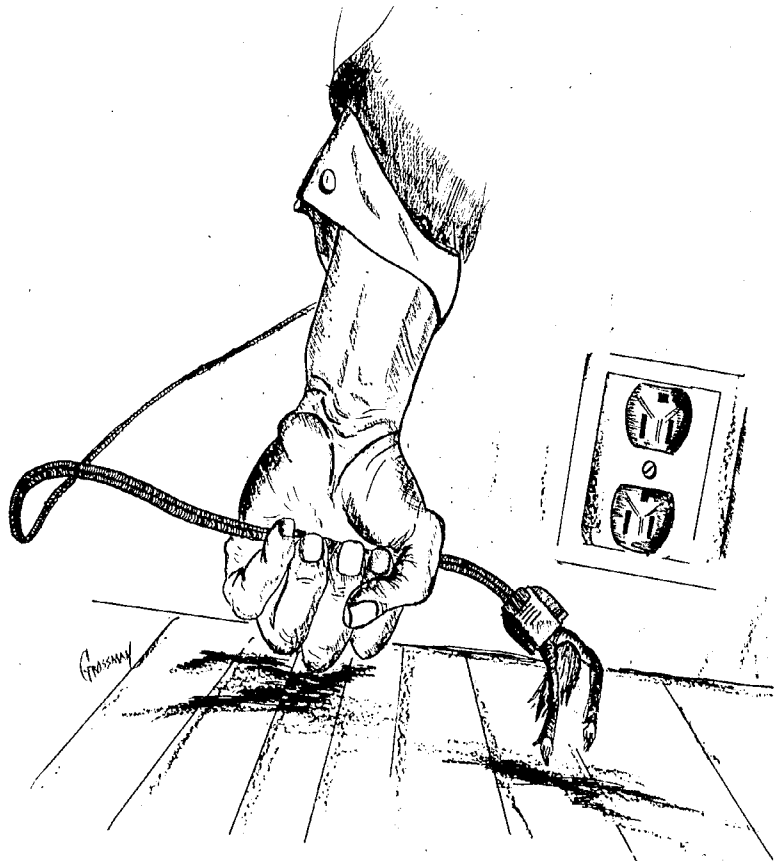

"If someone pulled the plug, he stopped life. I'd have to make a report of 'caused by another.'" The courts would decide if it were justifiable or otherwise," he stated.

"I can't see any other way. He'd have permanently stopped all possible chance for life," Warner added, stating his personal opinion or that of a funeral director would not necessarily be the same.

The Rabbi Steven Westman, of Temple Israel, said Jews believe it is not permissible to terminate life but doctors are not required to extend life by extraordinary means.

"If he's not obligated to continue life, I can't imagine why the person who pulls the plug would be liable," the rabbi said.

"I don't want doctors going ahead recklessly. It's a legal, religious, medical thing. Medical science is moving ahead and the rest of us are lagging behind," Rabbi Westman commented.

Cavaliers, Crusaders put perfect records on line

By JOE DEVIVO
Record Sports Writer

EAST STROUDSBURG — It's pretty early in the season to label any one ballgame "crucial." But there's just no other word which can better describe today's 2 p.m. Centennial League clash between East Stroudsburg and Notre Dame of Green Pond.

The Cavaliers and Crusaders put their perfect 5-0 records on the line today, and although it's only the second league game for both schools, there's no doubt the winner will have a key edge in the Centennial League's first title race.

Cavalier's coach Dick Merring doesn't deny it's an important game, but pointed out there are a few other teams around the league to also worry about.

"It's a very crucial game in that we're both 5-0," Merring said. "We both have some more teams to play that could certainly knock us off, but Notre Dame is one of the big ones if not the biggest one."

Merring isn't forgetting about Stroudsburg's role in the title picture.

"I think we three (East Stroudsburg, Notre Dame and Stroudsburg) are the key games," he said. "Right now we have to play them one at a time. This is the game we have to win this week."

Two similar teams

No matter where you look both teams are very similar. Both feature explosive offensive attacks and tough defenses.

"They have the same type of offense as we do: very explosive," Merring pointed out. "They'll blow for two or three quick touchdowns and then not get anything for two or three quarters. We'll have to cut down the big play."

Defensively, both teams are equally strong. The Cavaliers have permitted only 25 points in five ballgames, while the Crusaders have been almost as stingy with 39 points allowed.

"I can't see a high-scoring ballgame either way," Merring said. "They have a sound defense. They've held everybody to one touchdown or two at the most."

The Crusaders' big defensive line could pose some problems for the Cavaliers. The four linemen are Jim Kennedy (5-10, 182), Bob Baldwin (5-10, 202), John Gallagher (5-11, 205) and Charlie Powell (5-11, 191).

"They use four tackles on defense," Merring explained. "There are two regular tackles and two tackles at the end positions, which makes them big. We'll have to really do some good blowing and hard running to get through."

Two tight ends likely

To combat the Crusaders' size, Merring will probably go with the same two-tight end offense he used effectively against Pocono Mountain last week.

"We used two tight ends the whole game," Merring said. "Both Carl Dailey and Steve Jones were playing such good ball that we can use their blocking ability. It gives us more balance. In the second half last week we really moved the ball well and I would think we'll stay with it this week."

Defensively, Merring figures his team must contain Frank Scattene's outside speed and quarterback Greg Guman's ability to throw the long bomb.

"Scattene is a big threat outside. He's faster than anybody we have on our team," Merring said. "We're mainly concerned with funneling him to the inside where Ron Litts and some of our bigger people can handle him."

Merring won't assign anyone to specifically key on Scattene however.

"We are basically playing our regular defense and just hoping we are good enough to stop him outside," he said.

"We've worked on lateral pursuit a great deal. We have to have somebody to turn him in. The contain man is important. The contain man turns him in and from there lateral pursuit takes over."

Deep passing threat

Passing-wise, Guman likes to throw deep to Dave Bendus, Jim Holva, and Ray Fischer. Merring thinks the matchup between his secondary and the Crusaders' receivers could be the key to the game.

"The thing we have to stop is the long bomb," he said. "Our secondary defense has been pretty good to date. The key could be whether our secondary can stay up with their receivers."

Last but not least, the Cavaliers will have to be alert for a couple of trick plays. Crusader coach Marty Hlay has been known to resort to trickery on occasion.

"Last year he sent a man in motion doing cartwheels," Merring said. "While everybody was watching the guy do cartwheels, they ran a short pass to the other side of the field and completed it for a touchdown."

"He'll try to use any psychological means to psych his kids up right before a game and de-psych your team," Merring added. "We're expecting anything."

ESSC seeks sixth straight victory

Mansfield's runners worry Warriors

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College's undefeated football team will try to put the brakes on the number one rushing attack in the Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division when it faces Mansfield State today.

It will be Homecoming at ESSC and a crowd of more than 5,000 fans is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. The ticket booth will open at 12:30.

Warriors will play

EAST STROUDSBURG — Rain or shine, all system for go for East Stroudsburg State College's Homecoming Football Game against Mansfield today at 1:30 p.m. on the college field.

Barring any type of unexpected emergency, John R. Eiler, ESSC Athletic Director, indicates that the game will be played on schedule and all Homecoming festivities will take place.

No more knee problems

Bell finds out artificial turf's fine

By JOE DeVIVO
Record Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A lot of football players don't like artificial turf. Frank Bell isn't one of them.

Bell, the ex-Stroudsburg High School fullback who now plays for the University of Michigan, hopes he never has to play on natural grass again.

"I don't think I'd like to play on grass any more," Bell says. "With the Astro-Turf you don't have to worry about divots and there aren't any bumps."

Although Michigan's main practice field has artificial turf, Bell and his teammates still occasionally must work out on natural grass.

"Our practice field is only 80 yards long," he explained. "So some of us have to go over to a side field. We just hate it practicing on grass."

Strangely enough, when Bell first arrived at Michigan as a freshman in August, Astro-Turf was his worst enemy. Bell was recuperating from cartilage surgery to his knee and he and the artificial turf just didn't get along.

"It was really bad for my knee at first," Bell recalled. "Now I know I feel more confident running on Astro-Turf. The knee is perfect now."

Although Bell is back in top physical shape now, the time he lost waiting for the knee to come around cost him a shot at the varsity this fall.

He's playing on the Wolverines' junior varsity team at present and unless an injury occurs to one of the varsity fullbacks, Bell's status isn't likely to change this season.

"Things are starting to get tough now," Bell says. "Now we're playing tougher teams on our schedule and they're going with the starting players. I probably won't get a shot until next spring."

Bell is confident he'll be able to prove himself during spring drills when every position is up for grabs.

"It doesn't disappoint me that I'm playing for the junior varsity," Bell says. "I wasn't guaranteed I would play when I first came here. It'll be equal in the spring. Everybody's at the same level. There are no established positions."

Michigan's junior varsity has played only one game so far, a 21-0 loss to Notre Dame. Bell saw quite a bit of action in that ballgame.

The three remaining games on the Wolverines' junior varsity schedule are against Central Michigan, Bowling Green, and Notre Dame.

Incidentally, the Wolverines must like the talent available in the East. Michigan scouts will take a look at players in the Lehigh Valley and are reportedly interested in Bethlehem Catholic running back Mike Guman and Whitehall linebacker Matt Miller.

Reddicks sidelined

Bell's ex-teammate Ron Reddicks hasn't had much luck in his brief North Carolina State career. Reddicks tore up a knee recently and will be sidelined for the rest of the season.

Alspach's a starter

Freshman Steve Alspach, the hero of last year's Thanksgiving Day football game for East Stroudsburg High School, has earned a starting job at defensive end for Muhlenberg College.

Pa. is the team leader in tackles with 80 in five games and he helped hold Cheyney's highly-regarded fullback Abel Joe to ten yards in eight carries last week.

Junior Steve Smith, who was hampered last season because of an injury, stepped in at middle linebacker two weeks ago and has impressed the coaching staff with his aggressiveness and overall play.

At end, Mike Stambaugh, a part-time starter a year ago, has come through in spectacular style. He ranks second on the team in tackles with 47 and has consistently scored above 80 percent in the weekly film grades.

The other end, freshman Bill Bergen played his best game to date against Cheyney, sacking the Wolves' quarterback twice and earning an 81 percent film grade.

The defensive secondary of Willard Stem, Rich Rodenberger and Andy Whittington has performed up to expectations and even beyond, permitting only 71.8 yards per game, the division's best mark.

Douds states that the team has gotten solid play from tackles Rich Nicolais, Jim Forger and Fred Begendorf and outside linebackers Doug Sheaffer, Ron Vitkun and Doug Rhoads.

The ESSC offense has featured a powerful one-two punch in quarterback Mike Terwilliger and halfback Pete Radocha, both of whom were selected on this week's Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Division II All-East team.

Terwilliger completed 15 of 22 passes for 226 yards against Cheyney while Radocha rushed for 75 yards, caught five passes for 41 yards, completed a pass for 19 yards and kicked a 39-yard field goal.

For the season, the 6-2 sophomore quarterback has connected on 53 percent of his passes (42 for 79) for 629 yards and eight touchdowns. End Tom Palubinski has been his leading target, catching 11 passes for 267 yards and four TDs.

Radocha has accounted for more than half of the team's rushing yards with 381 yards gained in 101 carries. He also has contributed 84 yards on ten receptions and is four for four on option passes for another 53 yards.

Lou Schiavetta, Harold Strunk and Wally Hills will all see action at fullback with Ed Guers a backup at halfback. The wide receivers are Grey Seamans and Rick Jones.

Up front, center Pat Flaherty has been the most consistent player with identical film grades of 86 percent the last three weeks. Guards Bob Bydron and Glenn Serfass also have been in the team's 80-percent club each week with tackles Jeff Detzi and Rus Bykovets and tight ends Gary Laucks and Steve Reese right behind them.

Bobby Boyd has averaged better than 40 yards per punt for the last three weeks and has raised his season's average to 38 yards on 25 punts. He has converted 11 of 12 extra-point attempts.

Seamans (offense), Stem (defense) and Ron Watson, special teams, will serve as the team's captains for the Homecoming Game.

Mansfield's defense is second to ESSC in conference statistics, giving up 222 yards per game. The Mounties feature good pursuit with the ESSC scouts reporting that they get four and five players around the ball on each play.

Senior end Bob Widson (6-2, 200), an All-Conference second team selection last year, is the team's leader in tackles with end Don Savage, who made a goal-line tackle to save the win over Cheyney, second.

Rian Hileman, Brad Hunsicker and Mike Silecchia form a strong linebacking corps. Defense back Ed Ray was another key in the victory over Cheyney with two interceptions.

East Stroudsburg will need a win to stay in first place in the Eastern Division. The Warriors are now 3-0, a game ahead of runnerup Millersville, 2-1. Mansfield is tied for third with Kutztown at 1-1.

Directions to Green Pond

East Stroudsburg fans planning to attend today's game against Notre Dame of Green Pond can use the following directions to the field.

Take Rte. 33 South to the Wilson exit. Continue South on the Nazareth-Wilson Pike. At the first traffic light after passing Easton High School, turn right and travel about three-and-one half miles. A sign on a stone church on the right hand side of the road will direct you to the field.

Should today's game be postponed by rain, it would be rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at Easton's Cottingham Stadium.

Knights must stop Salisbury's ground game

By JOE MIEGOC
Record Sports Editor

PEN ARGYL — Pen Argyl might get a break in not facing a super passer today, but Salisbury has another avenue to travel: a power ground game.

"I would say they have a strong ground game," said Pen Argyl coach Dick Bowman, "with John Deutsch, their leading ground gainer from last year, as strong a physical back as we've seen this year."

"Running is their strength," he stressed. "They have a quarterback (Rick Krieg) who will try to throw on us I'm sure because they realize that's our weakness. Krieg is a good, steady player, but it's a game that we can go into not being totally scared of the pass."

What is lacking on the passing front isn't missing on the ground. Salisbury, 2-4, relies on its power up front led by 200-pound tackle Jeff Palmer and a line filled with veterans.

"They just try to blast you out," Bowman said. "That's like us, but we pull and trap more. They just run right at you and dare you to stop them. It could wind up that we'll both move the ball up and down the field and the one who scores last will win the game."

The Green Knights, 1-4, will have a new fullback in Mark Jones and Rick Behler won't play. Either Russ Miller or Tim Humphreys will play quarterback.

Miller played against Stroudsburg last week, but is still banged up and the starter is still in doubt, although Bowman probably leans to Miller. Scott Manini could also play there.

Also missing are George Hinton, out with a broken collarbone, and Rick Bender, lost for the year with a broken shoulder. Both were hurt at Stroudsburg last week.

Packer players return

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers' punchless offense got a boost Friday when Coach Bart Starr announced John Brockington and middle linebacker Jim Carter will start Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys.

Brockington was used sparingly in last Sunday's loss to New Orleans and Carter did not play. Starr said Brockington and rookie Willard Harrel, who also saw limited action last week, will open at running backs.

Place kicker Chester Marcol will miss his fourth straight game because of a leg injury, Starr said.

Starr said the winless Packers will have "to play an almost error free game" to beat the Cowboys, who are 4-0.

"The Cowboys are a very opportunistic team," Starr said.

"George did solidify us in the secondary," Bowman said. "We had good coverage against Stroudsburg and we thought we were putting a group together back there. Now we have to go searching again."

"I think we'll miss George on defense and also running back kicks," Bowman added about the kid who ran one back 82 yards for a score against Palisades. "He might have been the best in the area at that."

Bender, a middle guard, is out and Bowman feels his loss will also be felt. "He was the most physical kid on the team at middle guard and we'll miss him offensively, too," Bowman moaned. "We aren't that strong behind him and now we have to go searching again there, too."

The Green Knights haven't thrown an awful lot this year, relying mostly on the ground game, but Bowman feels doing the upstairs bit might be the key today.

"We'll have to come out and throw," he remarked, "and we'll have to throw early. They may be thinking they'll have to force us into passing, but we think we've made improvements in the passing game and we feel we can maybe come out throwing early and get them off our backs."

"Then we can come back to the game plan and run," he continued.

But the key is stopping that power game of Salisbury's. "We have to beat them up front on the line," Bowman stressed. "We have to get physical." That's been a problem of sorts for the Green Knights, though.

"We have some nice kids but not physical kids," Bowman explained. "Everyone has tried to lick us up front early in the game and then get us to shy off. Then they pass and keep us loose."

Pocono Joe's pro picks

Last week: 11-2 .846
Overall: 42-10 .808

Playing the favorites has worked out pretty well so far this season. So what happens when you run up against a handful of games where there is no obvious favorite, such as on this week's schedule? Go back to the magic eight ball that's what. Let's see what the old eight ball has to say this week.

LOS ANGELES OVER ATLANTA — The Rams keep acting like they want to give ballgames away. They'll have to be awful before the Falcons can beat them, however.

BALTIMORE OVER NEW ENGLAND — The Colts have come close against some mighty stiff opposition lately. This week with a little easier opponent, Bert Jones should be able to win one.

PITTSBURGH OVER CHICAGO — Bradshaw's back in form after a hand injury and that means bad news for the Bears.

DENVER OVER CLEVELAND — The Browns may win a game eventually, but it isn't likely to happen this week.

MINNESOTA OVER DETROIT — The Lions have given the Vikings something to worry about in the Central Division so far. A victory could give the Vikings some breathing room.

DALLAS OVER GREEN BAY — The Packers couldn't beat the Saints last week after holding a 16-0 lead. There's no reason to expect them to improve against the Cowboys.

KANSAS CITY OVER SAN DIEGO — This one could be closer than you might think. The Chargers' defense has come alive lately, but the Chiefs get the nod after an impressive win against Oakland last week.

N.Y. JETS OVER MIAMI — The Dolphins might be the favorites here, but the eight ball says the Jets can bounce back to pull off an upset.

SAN FRANCISCO OVER NEW ORLEANS — Neither team has shown much of an offensive attack, but the 49ers can't really be as bad as they appeared against the Falcons last Sunday.

CINCINNATI OVER OAKLAND — The law of averages says the Raiders won't play three bad games in a row, but the way the Bengals have been playing they could beat Oakland anyway.

ST. LOUIS OVER PHILADELPHIA — The Cardinals are coming off a tough loss to the Redskins, which would make it logical that an upset could occur. Since the Eagles still haven't made believers out of the eight ball, we'll stick with the Cardinals.

HOUSTON OVER WASHINGTON — The Oilers appear to be getting better every week. The Redskins had a hard time against the Cardinals on Monday night and may not be ready for this one.

Monday night

BUFFALO OVER N.Y. GIANTS — The Giants' defense showed signs of coming around against the Cowboys, but the offense was lacking. O.J. Simpson could make the defense look very bad again.

Optometrist tops Texas Open field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Gil Morgan trimmed four more strokes off par Friday to take a one-shot lead over Ralph Johnston midway through the $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Morgan, an optometrist from Wewoka, Okla., put together rounds of 66 and 68 for a 10-under par 134 over the 7,030 Woodlake Golf Club course.

Johnston of New Smyrna, Fla., was alone in second place with a 135, while Miller Barber, a co-leader after the first round, came in at 136 along with Charles Coady, Lon Hinkle, Richard Crawford and Mike Shea.

Crowd favorite, Lee Trevino, finished the day at three-under 141, while defending champion Terry Diehl had a 142 and 1973 Texas Open winner Ben Crenshaw was at 143 after 36 holes.

"I was real pleased with my round today," said Morgan, 29, who suffered his first bogey of the tournament on the 445-yard, par-four No. 14 Friday. He put together five birdies, however, with the longest putt coming from 12 feet.

"I'm in a position where I've never been before," said Morgan, whose best finish so far has been runner-up this year at Houston. He needs to finish in one of the top three places to move into the top 60 money winners on the tour.

Morgan entered this last tournament of the circuit with earnings of $33,897 for 66th position. He needs at least $7,000 to move into the top 60 and automatically qualify for all of next year's tournaments.

Barber, who tied Morgan for the lead with a 66 at the end of 18 holes, needs a victory to make it nine straight years in which he has won at least one tournament. Barber and Jack Nicklaus are the only two professional golfers ever to win at least one tournament eight straight years.

Cheesie's holds team meeting

PORTLAND — Cheesie's Village Barn of the Pocono Valley Softball League will hold a team reorganization meeting at 2 p.m. today at the Barn.

Anyone interested in trying out for the upcoming season should attend the meeting.

DelVal clinches crown

MATAMORAS — Delaware Valley clinched the Wayne-Pike League field hockey title Friday with a 3-0 victory over Wallenpaupack.

The Warriors, who are now 7-0-1 overall, will now advance to the district playoffs at Keystone Junior College on November 6.

Carlene McAllister accounted for all three goals for the Warriors.

In the junior varsity contest, Delaware Valley remained unbeaten with a 3-0 victory. Susan Lapriore collected all three goals.

The future

By Dean Beach and Dave Overcash

With the major portion of Pennsylvania's hunting seasons just ahead, we feel it is time for the sportsmen of this area to give some real thought to the future of gunning. The future of hunting rests with the individuals who regard the shooting sports as a way of life.

Hunting as well as trapping have not had the best public relations program over the years. There are many people who would like to see the sports eliminated completely. It is time for the sportsmen to start policing their own ranks and evaluating their own personal behavior. The time has come for all hunters and trappers to start working with the Game Commission at a grass roots level. It's time to become involved!

It is not the purpose of this particular article to go into the benefits that hunting and hunters has been to wildlife in the past. Rather, we would attempt to have gunners think about the future of the sport.

As conservation officers we attempt to work with the young hunters and impress them with a sportsmanlike attitude towards wildlife, not emphasizing the "kill" as a measure of man's hunting success but quality experiences in the woods and fields.

The question is, how do we get to these kids when some of their own fathers teach them that road hunting is OK if you don't get caught, killing more game than the limit is the only way to go; hunting in someone's back yard is alright because they've been hunting that area for 20 years; and probably one of the worst practices, which is much too common in this area, where anyone of a group of hunters kills as many deer as he can and then has someone else tag the deer.

Can you imagine your confusion if you were a young hunter who wanted to obey the game law and your dad says, here son, I just shot you a deer?

Hunting is a drama that is as old as man himself, the search, the stalk, and the clean kill. By nature man is a hunter and his instinct will not disappear. It is impossible to establish why a man wants to hunt, like a mountain climber trying to explain why he climbs mountains. We are in the midst of a renewed wave of anti-hunting and trapping sentiment. Any attempt we make to defend our sport to the non-hunter is nearly futile. Trying to explain the love and admiration you have for a deer that you have just stalked and killed to a person who doesn't hunt is next to impossible. Our only defense is sportsmanlike behavior.

Enforcement of the Game Law, as with enforcement of many laws, needs the help and assistance of the public and concerned sportsman to be effective. Why let a few thoughtless violators cloud the otherwise fine reputation of hunters and trappers. We certainly do not want to imply that all hunters are violators, or blood-thirsty gun toters with a lust to kill, fortunately they are just a small minority. Perhaps, though, what we all should do as we head into the hunting seasons is look back and evaluate our own record as a sportsman. We all have to work together to maintain hunting and trapping as the cherished traditions and fine sport they are.

U.S. takes 1-0 edge in Davis

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The United States, behind the blazing service of Roscoe Tanner, took a 1-0 lead over Venezuela Friday in the opening singles match of the second round of the Davis Cup.

Tanner, the 24-year-old Tennessee southpaw, put on a demonstration of smoking serves, including eight aces, to beat Jorge Andrew in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

Jimmy Connors, making his first playing appearance in Davis Cup competition, met Venezuela's top-rated Humphrey Hose later in the day to complete Friday's schedule.

Tanner appeared to get stronger as the match progressed, although the temperature was in the mid-80s.

After an exchange of service breaks in the fourth and fifth games of the first set, the blonde Tanner served back-to-back aces in the sixth for a shutout. It appeared to be the turning point in the match. Tanner added a service break in the ninth game to win the first set.

In the second set, Tanner broke Andrew in the seventh game for a 4-3 lead and then closed him out. In the third set, Tanner broke Andrew in the second game for 2-0 lead and was never caught.

The doubles is scheduled for today and the round will be completed Sunday with two more singles.

The United States is determined to regain the Cup this year.

Arnold, Grandis 'most improved'

MOUNTAINHOME — Karen Arnold and Eddie Grandis have been named "most improved golfers" for the 1975 season at Mo-Nom-O-Noek Inn and Country Club. Vin Ciarlone is club professional.

Each of the winners receives a gold embossed award certificate from Golf Digest magazine, sponsor of the program that is participated in by over 2,000 clubs across the country. J & B Scotch is providing each participating club with a plaque for listing the names of the golfers selected. The names will also appear in the January issue of Golf Digest.

Miss Arnold lowered her handicap 10 strokes during the season.

Daily, Kemmerer, Lecker selected

Three ESSC archers are All-Americans

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College the 1975 collegiate mixed team champion, has placed three archers on the 12-member National Archery Association (NAA) All-America team.

Janet Kemmerer of Fort Washington was chosen for the third straight year on the women's team. Glenn Daily of East Stroudsburg, a repeat selection, and Joel Lecker of St. Mary's were picked on the men's team.

The three combined with Darlene Sedlock of Bethlehem to win the mixed team division at the United States Intercollegiate Archery Championships last May at Cerritos College, Norwalk, Calif.

Glenn Daily

Kemmerer, a former United States Indoor women's amateur champion, was the Eastern Collegiate champion four straight years and the Philadelphia Archery Club champion three times. She placed fourth in the intercollegiate in 1973 and 1974 and 12th this year.

A Biology major, Kemmerer was a Dean's List student at East Stroudsburg eight straight semesters, graduating in May. She is now a graduate student at Temple University.

The upper Dublin High School graduate was honored as the outstanding female archer at East Stroudsburg an unprecedented four straight years.

Daily was the team's highest individual finisher in the intercollegiate last May with a third-place standing in the men's division. He also was third in both the Eastern Collegiate and the Philadelphia Club tournament.

Now a senior with a major in Mathematics and Economics, Daily placed 12th in the intercollegiate in 1974. He is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School.

Lecker was the United States Indoor men's collegiate champion this past year and the Eastern Collegiate runnerup. He was 11th in the intercollegiate and seventh in the NAA nationals.

A sophomore, Lecker was chosen as East Stroudsburg's outstanding male archer for 1975. He previously won intermediate titles in the Pennsylvania All-Events, Pennsylvania Target Championships, the Mid-Atlantic Championships twice and the NAA Field Nationals. He is a graduate of St. Mary's High School.

All three archers were coached by Maryanne Schumm, East Stroudsburg archery coach and coordinator of women's athletics who is now on a year's sabbatical leave studying for her doctoral degree at Penn State University.

Under Schumm's direction, both the Warrior men's and women's teams were undefeated last season with identical 10-0 records. The men were third in the intercollegiate team competition and the women fourth.

The men's team has never lost a match in two years of varsity competition with 17 straight wins. The women's squad is 51-1 over the last seven years with six unbeaten seasons.

The NAA All-America team is selected by a board of a chairperson and six judges. It is considered the highest honor available to a collegiate archer and is indicative of his or her outstanding skill and keen interest in competitive target archery.

Other members of the men's team were U.S. Intercollegiate champion Don Rabaska, Gary Riley and John Smith, all from San Bernardino Valley College, and Richard Stonebraker of Penn State.

Chosen on the women's team were three-time U.S. Intercollegiate champion Debbie Green and Luann Ryon of Riverside City College, Wendy Vance and Jean Stephenson of Arizona State and Deborah Ann Hammer of San Bernardino Valley.

An All-America team has been selected each year since 1963. Arizona State and San Bernardino Valley have dominated the selections with 47 choices apiece. East Stroudsburg is eighth on the list of 42 colleges with seven selectees.

Only six archers have been honored four straight years, a distinction for which Lecker will be eligible. They are Stephen Lieberman of Arizona State (1971-74), Rabaska of San Bernardino (1972-75), Carol Jurn of Arizona State (1971-74), Cathie Pipitone of San Bernardino (1970-73), Judy Severance of Arizona State (1964-67) and Rose Svare of San Bernardino and Cal State Long Beach (1968-71).

Kemmerer is one of five archers chosen three straight years.

McGinnis gives 76er fans reason to be optimistic

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The strange sights and sounds the Philadelphia 76ers may see and hear this year could be fans, and fans cheering.

The 76ers, Atlantic Division cellar inhabitants in the National Basketball Association's past three seasons and a club that's failed to make the playoffs since 1970-71, underwent a massive rebuilding campaign after last season's 34-48 mark.

After a legal fight with the New York Knicks that they won, the 76ers got forward George McGinnis, the leading scorer in the American Basketball Association last year with 2,353 points and a 29.8 average.

McGinnis has been a big part of the 76ers preseason promotions and it has paid off in a record number of season ticket sales for a Philadelphia pro basketball team. The 76ers drew only 296,721 fans in 41 home games last year for a 7.237 average.

McGinnis claims that one of his early pro heroes when he was playing at Indiana University was veteran Billy Cunningham, with whom he will team at forward to give the 76ers a dangerous combination up front.

Coach Gene Shue also has Steve Mix, the team's only All-Star representative last season, as a forward and has indicated there may be times when he will play all three.

Mix hurt his foot right after the All-Star game and missed almost half the season but is fully recuperated.

Backcourt appears to be another strength for the 76ers with Fred Carter and Doug Collins returning. Carter was the club's leading scorer last year with a 21.9 average, and Collins came back after an injury-plagued first season.

Collins had the best shooting percentage from the field or foul line among the regulars, lead the team in steals and his 17.9 scoring mark was No. 3 on the team behind Cunningham and Carter.

The 76ers went undefeated in their first three exhibition games in which Shue started Harvey Catchings at center. Other centers are Clyde Lee and LeRoy Ellis.

But it is at center that the

U.S. cagers defeat Canadians

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States defeated Canada, 75-56, Friday in the pan American Games Women's Basketball Tournament, avenging a loss to the Canadians three weeks ago in the World Championships in Colombia.

Mary Anne O'Connor, a 5-foot-10 blonde guard from Fairfield, Conn., led the winners with 14 points. Ruth Rojewicz, a guard from Worcester, Mass., with 13, and 6-3 center Charlotte Lenis of Peoria, Ill., with 11, were also in double figures.

Liz Silcott, the only blonde girl on the Canadian team, took game scoring honors with 18 points.

FESTIVAL PRO CHAMP — Jack Kay, left, receives a check for $500 and championship plate from Shawnee Inn and Country Club golf director Dick Farley after Kay defeated Art Silvestone on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff to win the professional division of the sixth annual Shawnee Fall Festival of Golf.

Key collegiate contests take place in Colorado

By United Press International
It's one heck of a place for a reunion.

Dan Devine, Frank Kush and Al Onofrio, once members of the same coaching staff at Arizona State, each take a nationally-ranked team into action in Colorado today.

And, if they get together tonight, it might be to console each other.

Devine, who was head coach at Arizona State in the 1950's with Kush and Onofrio his assistants, masterminds 15th-ranked Notre Dame against the Air Force Academy.

It would not appear to be too taxing an assignment for Notre Dame, but the Irish have been extremely conscientious about holding down the score this year. Despite being a heavy favorite over North Carolina last week, the Irish entered the fourth quarter trailing 14-0 and needed an 80-yard pass play with 63 seconds left to pull out a 21-14 victory.

It has to give hope to the Falcons, who tied UCLA in their only other home game this season.

Kush, who took over the top spot at Arizona State when Devine left for Missouri, hopes to watch the 13th-ranked Sun Devils maintain their perfect record this season when they meet Colorado State.

Colorado State is seeking its first win in 14 games with the Sun Devils. But the Rams are off to a 4-1 start, their best since 1955, and the contest with Arizona State will determine the Western Athletic Conference leader.

The big game of the day, though, has No. 11 Missouri against No. 10 Colorado in a crucial Big Eight contest.

Onofrio, who took over the head coaching job at Missouri when Devine left for the Green Bay Packers, has guided the Tigers to a big upset over Alabama in the season opener and last week watched his squad destroy previously unbeaten Oklahoma State, 41-14. Missouri's only loss this season was to Michigan.

Running back Tony Galbreath gives the Tigers an outstanding ground attack, but last week it was Steve Pisarkiewicz' passing that buried the Cowboys. Pisarkiewicz connected on 20 of 30 passes for 371 yards.

The Buffaloes have lost only one game this season and that by a single point to Oklahoma when they missed the game-tying extra point attempt.

The Missouri-Colorado contest appears to be the best in the nation today.

Another top contest has ninth-ranked Texas meeting Arkansas in a key Southwest Conference game.

SKIING IN OCTOBER??

No, but that's the time that smart skiers buy their Camelback Season Passes to take advantage of a 10% Savings. And with a ski season such as we had over the past winter (from Nov. 29th thru March 30th), a season pass really makes a worthwhile skiing investment. It's also a great Christmas gift for a skier. QUICK STOP SYSTEM

THE WORLD'S SAFEST CHAIN SAW

With the Quick Stop System, STIHL has introduced the most important contribution to the prevention of accidents involving chain saws. This new system offers Safety When Starting, Safety When Cutting, and Safety When Carrying even at full throttle. SEE IT TODAY.

A real power-packed lightweight in the "medium" range to give you a new power-to-size dimension in cutting. Designed for cutting medium timber, this saw will prove its professional performance in felling, limbing and pulpwood cutting. Farmers will want it for clearing timber and contractors will see its value in a wide range of cutting jobs.

Dialogue

PRINCETON, N.J. — The North American branch of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches — denominations in the Presbyterian and Congregational tradition — have agreed to engage in a three-year theological dialogue with the Roman Catholic church touching on such subjects as "morality and unity" and the Eucharist, or Lord's Supper.

Handy crusher

The Irish government has licensed a private company to travel around from town to town with a mobile car crusher. The crusher compacts abandoned motor vehicles which are then turned over to a government steel mill as scrap.

LIQUIFIRE COOLS IT!

Liquid cooling takes the heat off high-performance snowmobiling

If you crave a no-nonsense sled that delivers on all types of terrain, take a close look at the new John Deere Liquifire. Liquifire boasts a 340 or 440 cc reed-valve engine, set low over the skis for hair-trigger handling on hills and switchbacks. Drive Liquifire hard, sunup to sundown, without power loss . . . liquid cooling keeps engine temperatures more uniform. But liquid cooling is only one of Liquifire's traveling credentials. A wide 32-inch ski stance and a 6-inch-longer "wheel-base" work together to keep you going over bone-jarring trails. CD ignition delivers a hot spark for rapid starts. And surface-gap plugs burn clean to prevent fouling. Dual Mikuni carburetors, adjustable slide-rail suspension, disk brakes and more. Black with silver panels.

Saving money is the only good reason to buy a snowmobile this early in the year. But usually the only dealers willing to cut their prices are the ones stuck with last year's models to get rid of. With a few exceptions, your 'Ski-Doo dealer has only brand new, factory fresh '76 models to sell. So to help him compete with the discounters, Ski-Doo is going to help you get a better deal.

The $100 Rebate from Ski-Doo.

It's a very good reason for you to start thinking about winter, now.

When You buy any 1976 Olympique* or TNT 340 from a participating dealer before October 25, 1975, Ski-Doo will mail you a check for $100. Manual Start Models. Buy any 1976 Elan on the same terms and we'll rebate you $50.

See your Ski-Doo dealer, now. Not only will you get a current machine with all the latest developments and improvements, you'll get a handsome rebate from us after you make the best deal with your dealer.

That's a great way to start off the winter.

Quality of life study has nation's cities in a tizzy

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — From Texas' Rio Grande Valley to the Gulf Coast shores and even the floor of Congress people are upset at the Midwest Research Institute's "Quality of Life" survey of American cities.

The nation's seventh-largest think tank issued the government-funded study last month, rating the liveability of each of the 243 metropolitan areas in the nation, based on 123 different statistical factors.

Top-ranked were Portland, Ore.; Eugene, Ore., and La-Crosse, Wis. The worst were Jersey City, N.J.; Mobile, Ala., and Laredo, Tex.

Since then, MRI has been the target of angry mayors, chambers of commerce and just plain folks who say they don't like a bunch of eggheads telling them their city is rotten.

A resident of McAllen, Tex., ranked third worst of the 95 metropolitan areas below 200,000 population, made up his own "report card" on MRI. He gave the institute a grade: F.

Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., in a speech on the House floor, labeled the study "a libel and a slander against a number of areas." Birmingham, which is in his district, was ranked second worst of cities over 500,000 population.

The controversy has done more than stir civic pride. It touched deeper issues and triggered a flap within the Environmental Protection Agency.

Questions raised because of the study included: — What is the quality of life? Can it really be measured by cold statistics like crime and hospital beds and dollars spent on education?

— What is the point of rating a city poor besides bruising egos?

— Does the government have the right to judge a city inferior simply because it chooses not to have high taxes?

Wilson Talley, assistant EPA administrator for research and development, said the study "tends to take too simple a view of a very complex subject."

Talley criticized the study's methodology, which for example would rate a large number of autos in a city good in one respect, mobility, but bad in another, noise pollution.

The author, Dr. Ben-Chieh Liu, an MRI economist, went to Mobile this month to explain why he ranked the city as worst of 83 medium-sized metropolitan areas. His answers left civic leaders, if not appeased, at least understanding better what the study's goals were.

Liu said the goals were three-fold: to compare U.S. metropolitan areas to each other statistically as a start toward a better understanding of urban areas; to identify areas of strength and weakness in each area so city planners can take appropriate action; and to set up a yardstick to objectively measure progress in an urban area and how effective policies are.

Liu admitted the study's limitations — data used was five years old, from the 1970 census; psychological ingredients were not measured; and rankings were relative to other cities, not absolute.

"This is not a Bible for environmental control or policy," Liu said. "I don't claim this is the final word on the quality of life. I don't think anyone can come up with a study at first that can solve all our urban problems."

Liu was pleased at the large response the study brought (two MRI employees are working full-time to answer requests for copies of the study) and amused at the few crackpot letters he received. But he plainly was stung by criticism from EPA's Talley.

"Ranking of the cities was not in the original scope of the agreement," Talley said. "What we were looking for was a tool so decision makers could have a quantitative mechanism for deciding whether to put more money into hospital beds or parking lots. That's the part of the study I'm disappointed in."

Robert Livingston monitored the study for the EPA but has since quit in a dispute with Talley over reorganization of the research department. Livingston defended the study.

"The stand that EPA has elected to take regarding this piece of research is rather disturbing but not undisciplined," Livingston said. "Due to the amount of political flak the report has provoked, Mr. Talley and others have lost sight of the intent behind the study and have since decided to discredit and claim the study as a failure."

"His remarks are irresponsible and demeaning to the agency," Livingston said. "I stand behind the research results as presented."

"It's well documented," he said. "Even if this didn't result in the kind of ultimate tool so the city council could know whether to invest in more hospital beds or pay for agency," Livingston said. "I think some day and perhaps this will have contributed to it."
